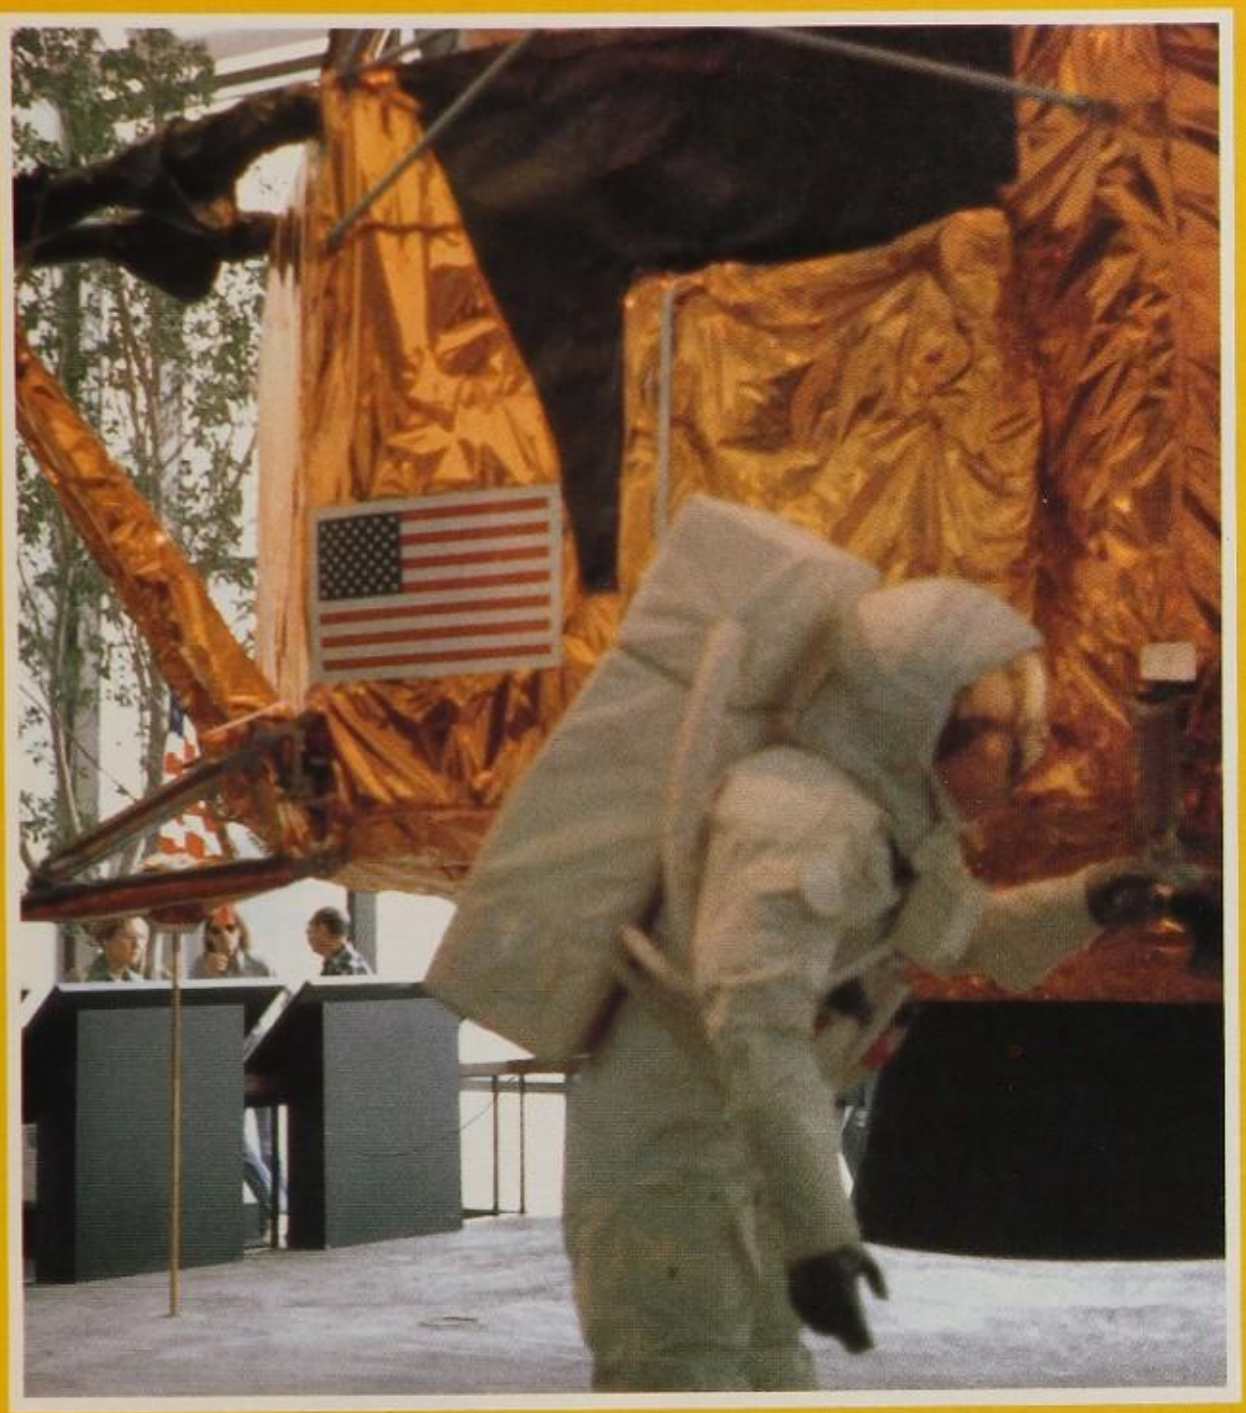
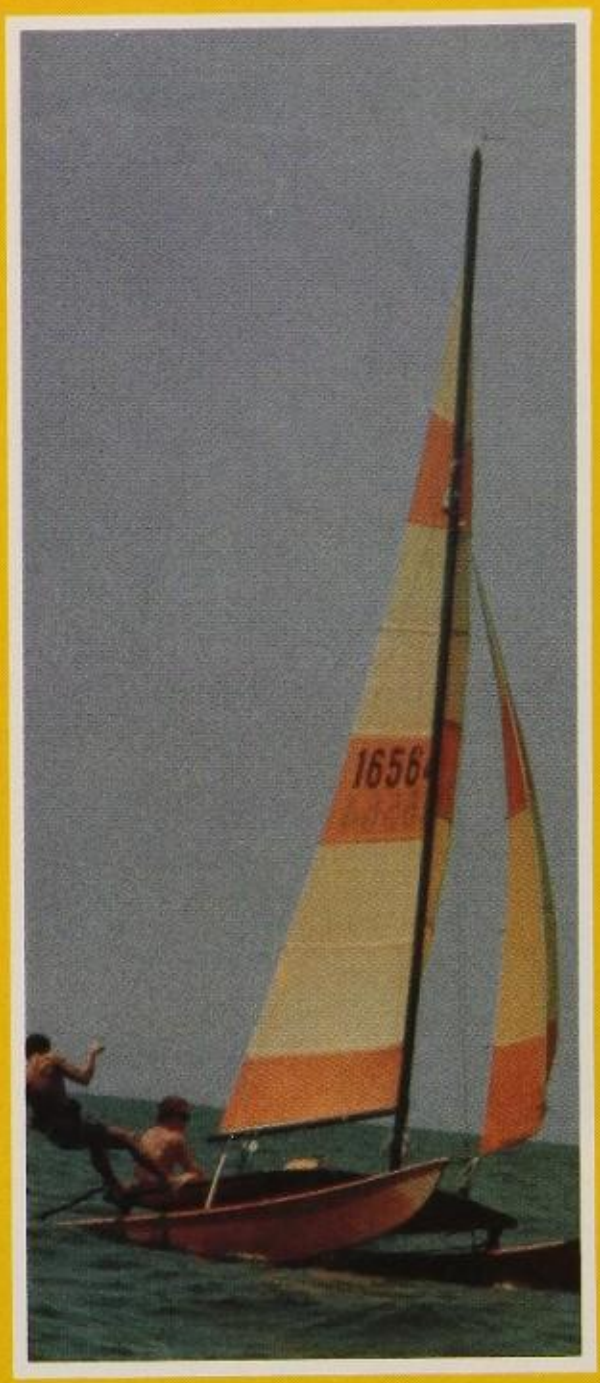
Life seems to have been so simple for us then.

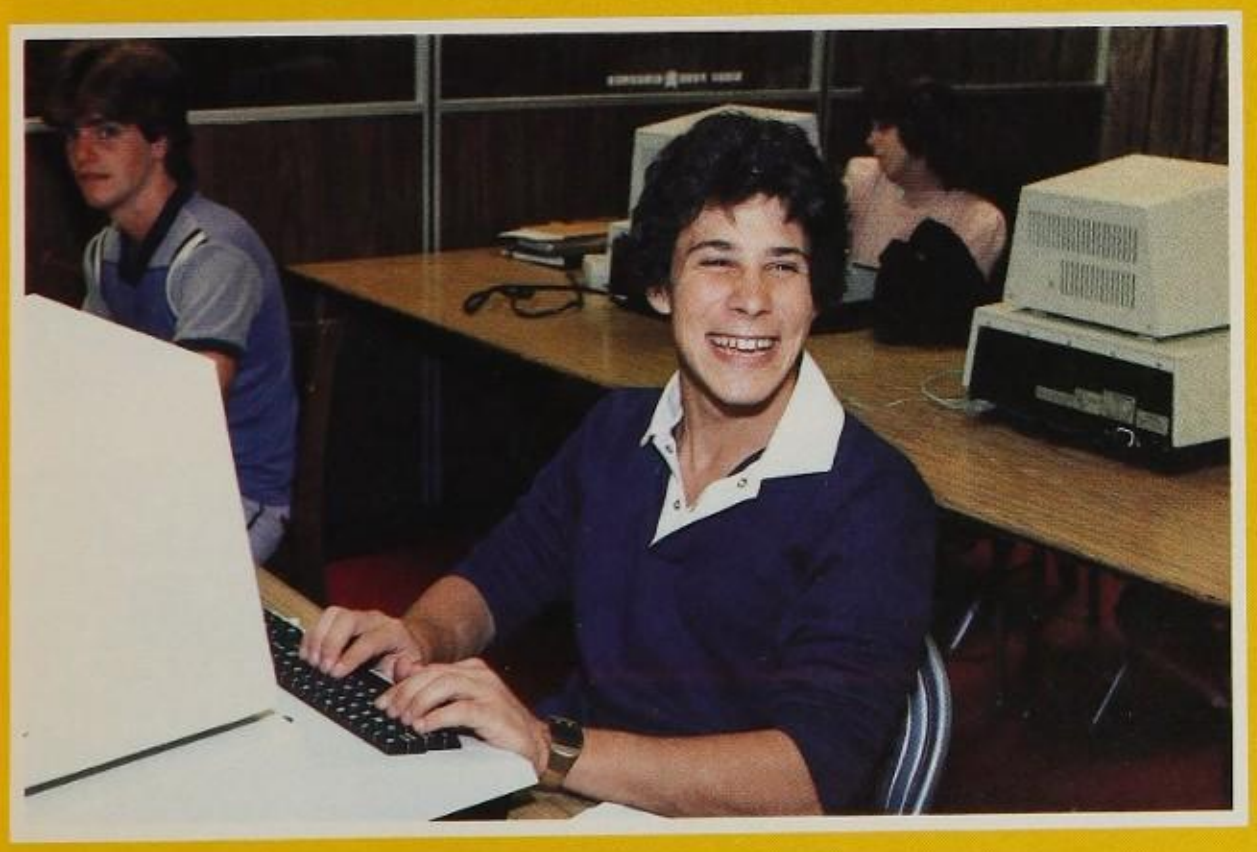


The opportunities that space travel have opened up to man are too numerous to comprehend.



The limitlessness of the sea allows man a precious freedom.

Our lives are a continual learning experience. There is always something new to discover—some opportunity waiting to be seized!



The computer is a tool that will allow Craig Rubin to explore the infinite horizon of knowledge.

Richard Wilson giving a helping hand

Christine Simonsen displaying her creativity.

And with these, each and every person goes through his own branching out process . . .

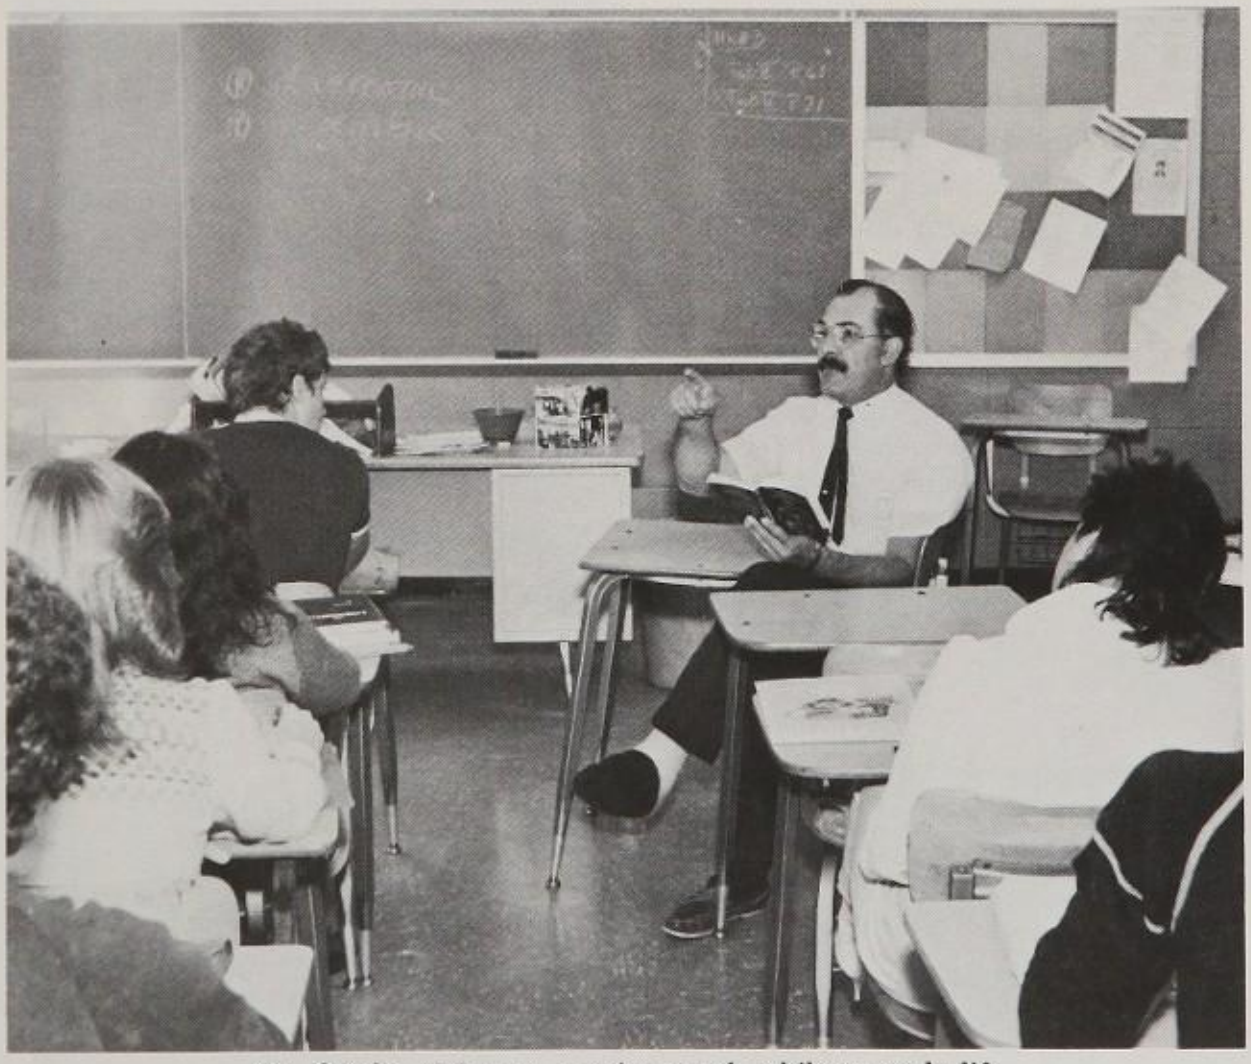
Mr. Mathie sharing his knowledge

We branch out in so many ways; and each of us has our own idea of what branching out means for ourself.

The old helping the young

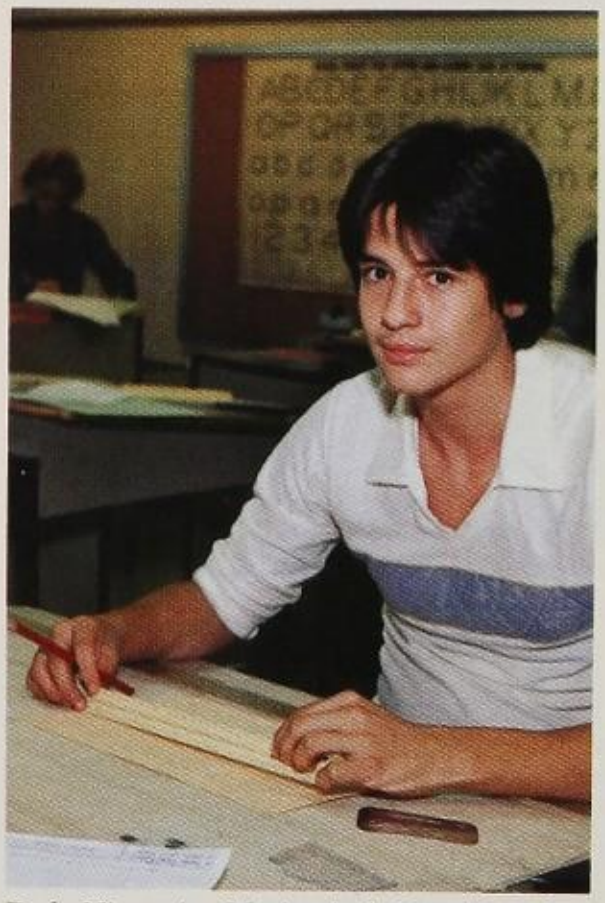


Mr. Ostebo giving us a point worth while towards life

We all have to make decisions; come to conclusions that will affect our lives in one way or another. We all remember the words of Robert Frost . . .

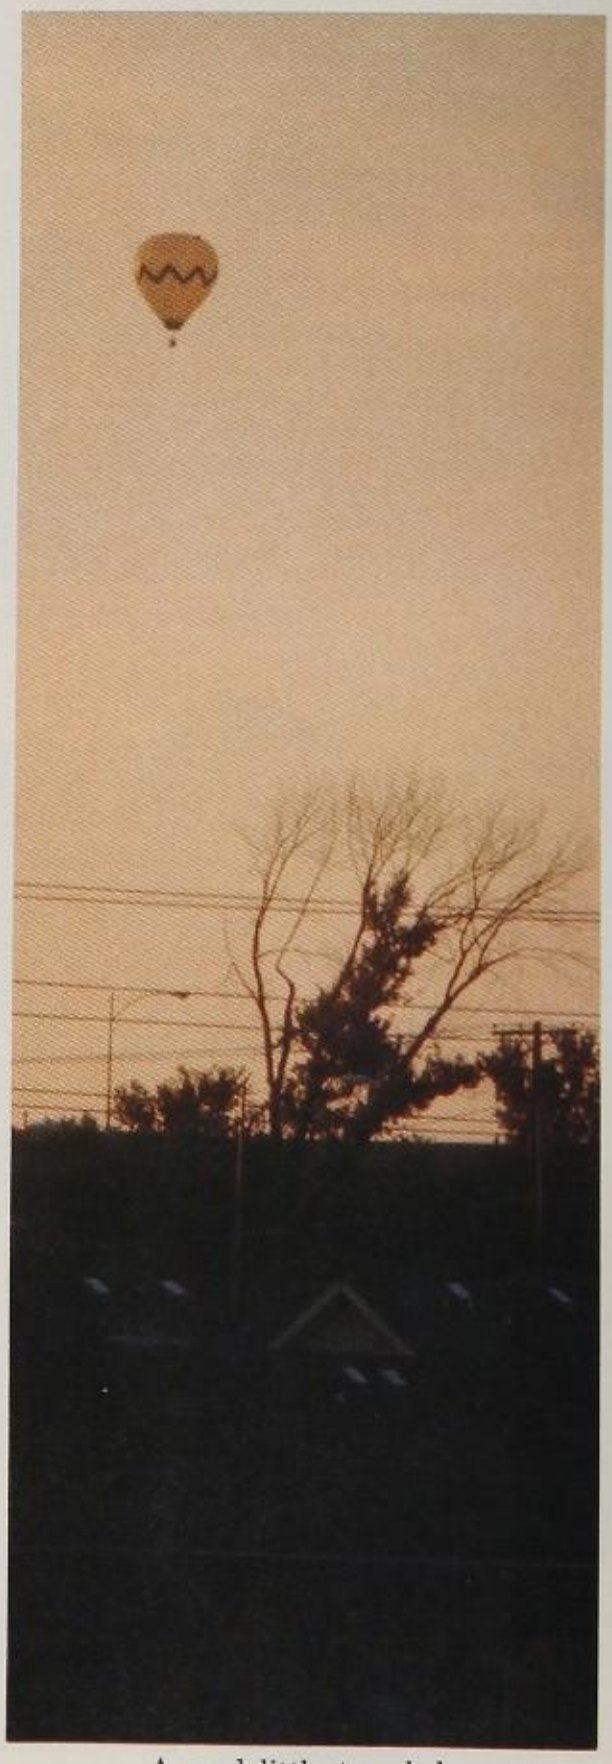
The Road Not Taken

Two roads diverged in a yellow wood,
And sorry I could not travel both
And be one traveler, long I stood
And looked down one as far as I could
To where it bent in the undergrowth;
Then took the other, as just as fair,
And having perhaps the better claim,
Because it was grassy and wanted wear;
Though as for that the passing there
Had worn them really about the same,
And both that morning equally lay
In leaves no step had trodden black.
Oh, I kept the first for another day!
Yet knowing how way leads on to way,
I doubted if I should ever come back.

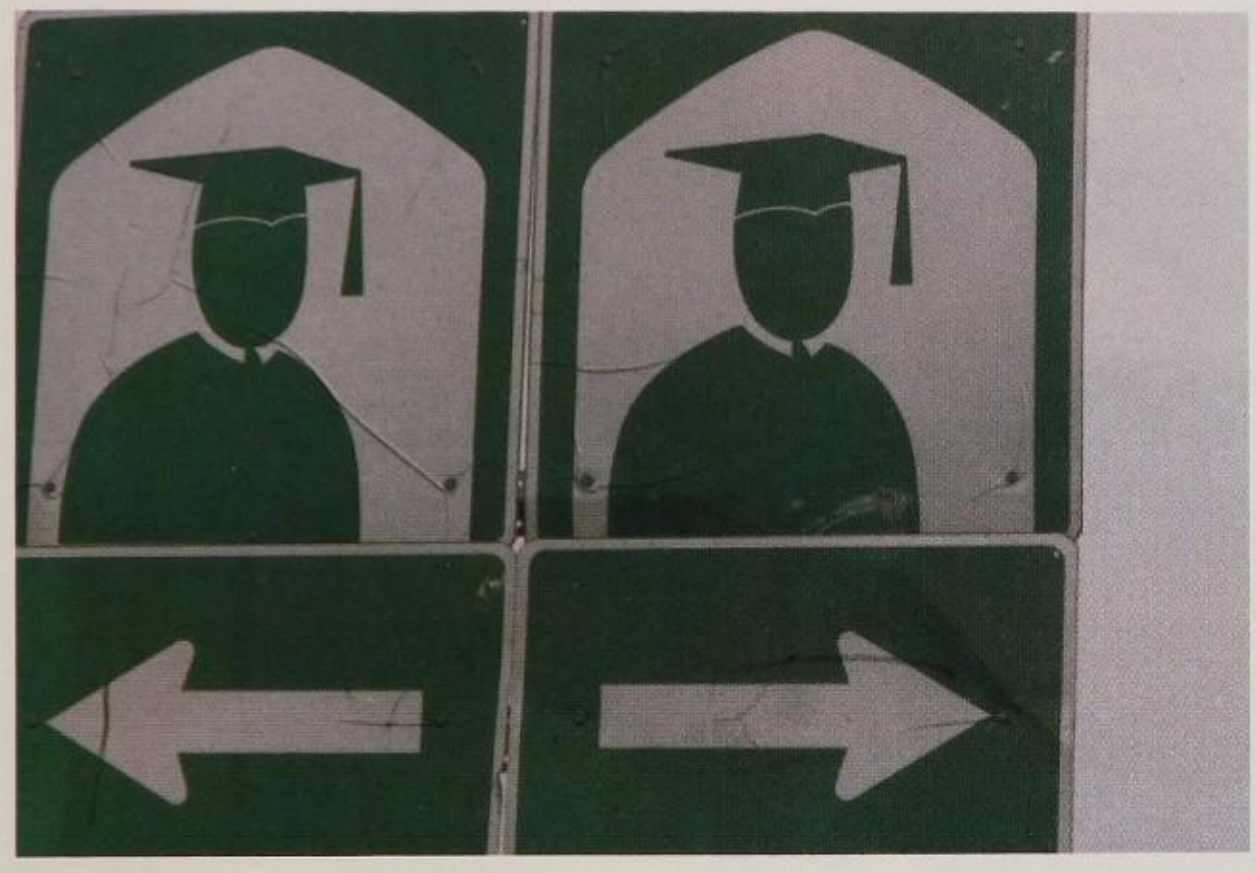


Rod Niera in Mechanical Drawing class thinking about the road he should choose to take.

Maggie Ho is assisted in her search for knowledge by Mrs. Bazell.



A road little traveled.

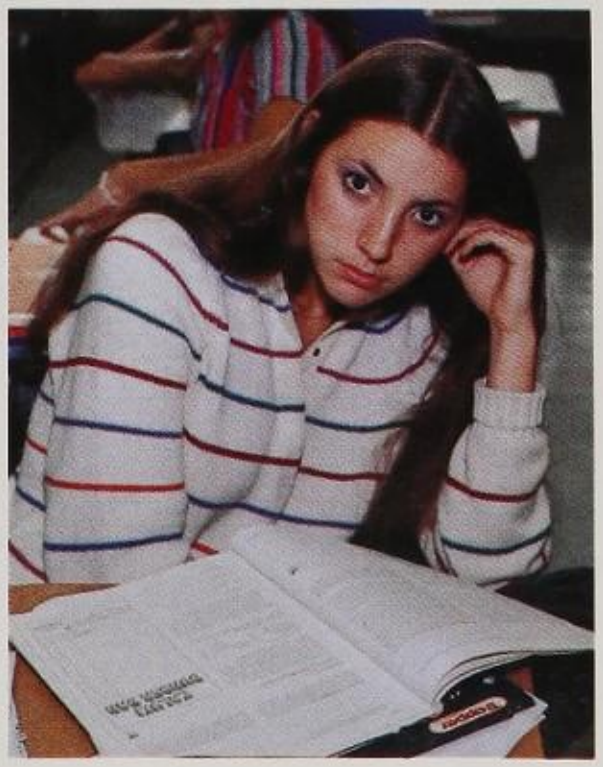


Choice or challenge?

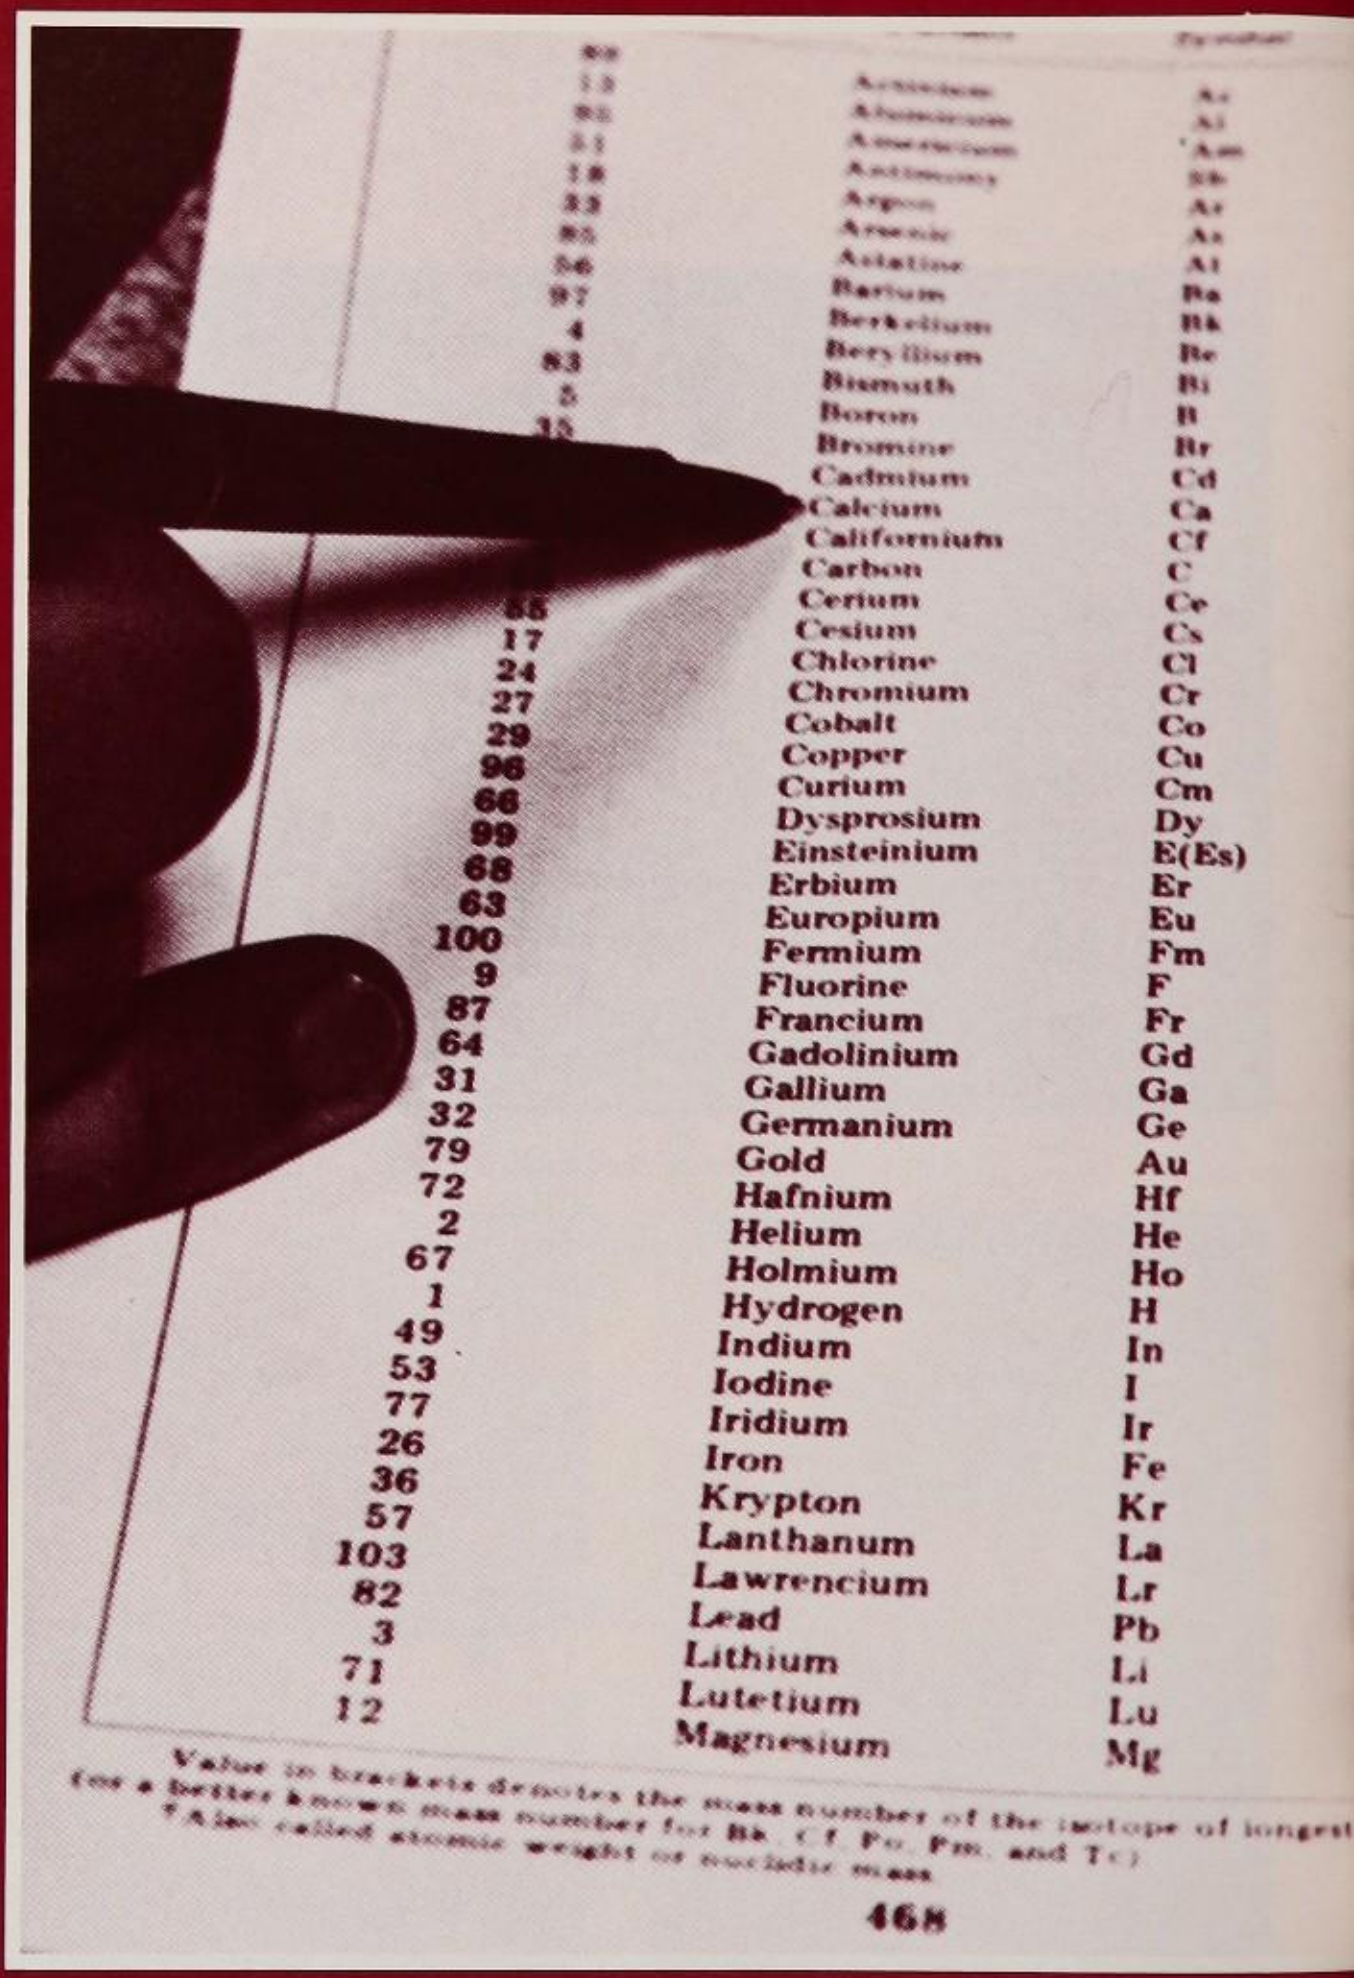
I shall be telling this with a sigh
Somewhere ages and ages hence:
Two roads diverged in a wood, and
I—
I took the one less traveled by
And that has made all the difference.

In choosing the road "less traveled" our decisions are made even more difficult. But with each challenge, each choice with which we struggle, we grow up that much more. We must accept the consequences, good or bad. We will learn from our mistakes, revel in our successes, and will grow just a little more with each experience.

Many roads become passé.



Jill Jacobowitz contemplates the possibilities that lie ahead of her.



Summer . . . Books lay unused in the several storage rooms. Nothing is disturbing them and nobody is learning from them . . . Fall . . . School opens and books come alive again . . . their knowledge emanates magically and brilliantly from every page, taking whoever opens them on an odyssey never before experienced . . .

On Top of the Highest Branch

EVERMORE

Once upon a midnight dreary, while I studied weak and weary,
Over many a quaint and curious volume of forgotten lore —
While I nodded, nearly napping, suddenly there came a tapping,
As of some one gently rapping, rapping at my chamber door.
"'Tis but the Ghost of Graduation, tapping at my chamber door —
Only this and nothing more."

Startled at the stillness broken, by my own words softly spoken:
"'Tis a ghost entreating entrance at my chamber door?!"
Deep into the future peering, long I stood there wondering,
fearing,
Doubting, dreaming dreams that I had never dared to dream before.
Let my heart be still a moment and this mystery explore . . .
"Why're you here?" I implore.

But the ghost, sitting lonely on my Physics notes, spoke only
To console me, as if his soul in these few words he did outpour:
"Your first-rate High School education provides you with a firm foundation;
And countless opportunities will be yours to explore,
Free from many of the restrictions which always limited you before.
What, then, do you sigh for?"

From his expression I discerned, that this ghost truly was concerned
About the grave and stern decorum of the countenance I wore.
"The truth is, ghost, I am bereft, at thought of friends that must be left."
Then the ghost so gently muttered, "Other friends have flown
before:
The old friends will keep in touch, and you will find so many more;
Take comfort in this, and cry no more."
Then me thought, "the ghost is right — the future really does look bright.
I shall face it with conviction; of myself I now am sure."
Confident his message would not be disregarded, the Ghost of Graduation quietly departed.
Our High School days draw to a close, but we all have wonderful prospects in store.
Much has transpired in our four years here, and all of it in our minds is stored —
These memories will linger everymore.

Comment on 1984

1984 has come at last! George Orwell chose 1984 as the title of his classic depiction of a dreadful age to come simply by reversing the last two digits of the year he began writing the book, 1948. He attached no particular significance to the year as such. He was writing, really, of the changes that had already taken place in life as a result of three central developments of the twentieth century.

First, the advent of the modern form of tyranny, the totalitarian state, which first appeared in Soviet Russia. This was a form of government altogether different from the tyrannies of old, which only required that you behave, which is to say that you not challenge those in power. These new regimes required that you believe: that you live Big Brother. Control becomes total; privacy utterly disappears. (In this sense terrorism is totalitarian: one murders children to oppose a government in power, there being no distinction between the individual and the state, no realm of the personal and private.)

The manipulation of language, especially the inversion of meaning, becomes a state industry. War is Peace, proclaimed Winston Smith's state of Oceania. (The United Nations declares that Zionism is racism. UNESCO conferences begin speaking about "Peoples' Rights" as against human rights. "Peoples' Rights" turn out to be the rights of governments.) This manipulation of belief was made possible by our century's second central development, the information revolution. Technological changes in electronics have made it to record — and erase — billions of bits of information about everybody and everything.

The final pivotal development of our century was the splitting of the atom and development of atomic weapons which, at once, made one kind of war (nuclear) so vastly destructive and threatening that another, lower level, kind of hostility (conventional) became continuous between the three empires of 1984: Oceania, Eastasia and Eurasia.

Orwell, the simplest of men, was in fact a genius when it came to envisioning the gadgetry of this "1984" future. Buck Rogers and his space ships had nothing on Big Brother's police installing surveillance cameras in everybody's bedroom. (Have you happened lately to notice how often you are silently watched by a slowly arcing, tireless, lens tucked up in the corner of your supermarket, or bank, or United States Capitol?)

Again, he was uncanny in foreseeing the possible disappearance altogether of any person as the head of a totalitarian state. Consider Yuri Andropov, ruler of all the Russians. He has not been seen in public since August. And yet he rules! (As I recall, it is never clear in 1984 whether Big Brother, the ruler of Oceania, actually exists.) But the main point about 1984 is that it was more warning than prophecy.

Orwell, at intervals, would immerse himself in the life of English working people, and came utterly to trust their judgment of things, as against that of his own class. (He was, of course, an Etonian.) In 1943, when the Yanks began to arrive in England in serious numbers, the word went around the fashionable, leftish circles of London that the soldiers were there not to help mount an invasion of the Continent, but rather to put down an expected General Strike. Orwell observed that you had to have a college education to believe such a proposition: that no London taxi driver would give it a moment's credence.

You can overdo this. No group is infallible. And you can't hold it against a person that his parents sent him to a "good" school. But granting Orwell his quirks, he really did believe in democracy, in the good sense of the people.

Our many thanks to the Honorable Daniel Patrick Moynihan for the use of this excerpt from his January 2, 1984 newsletter.

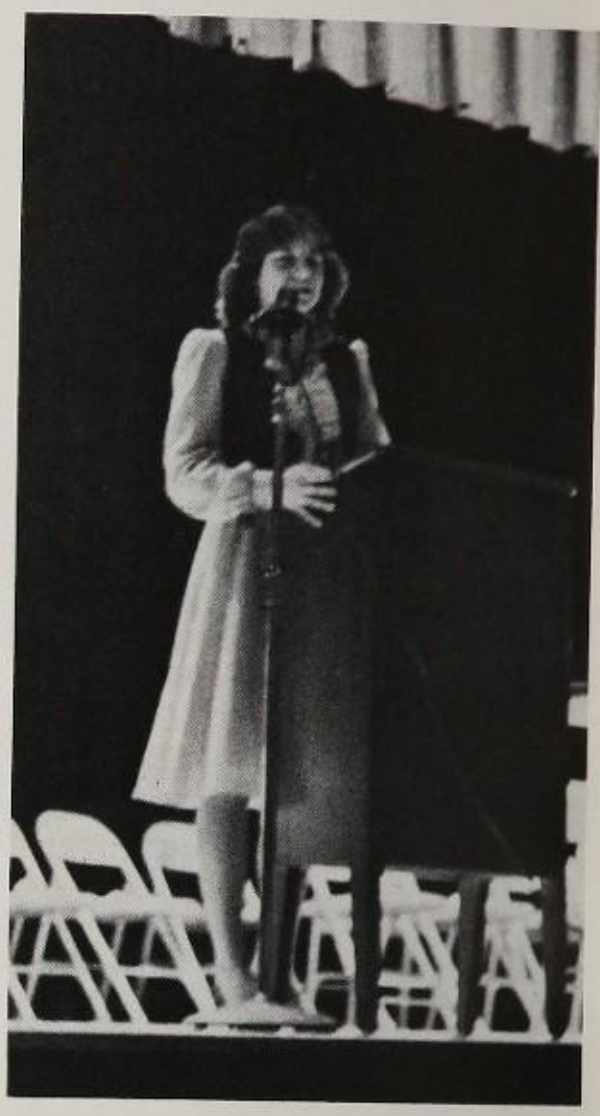
The Cream of the Crop

The Kings Park Chapter of the National Honor Society is an organization honoring students for their outstanding performance throughout their high school years. The students are inducted into the society after meeting accepted standards for character and academics, as well as demonstrating service and a sense of responsibility and leadership to both the school and the community.

The members are involved in a variety of activities during the year such as car washes and volleyball-dance marathons for Muscular Dystrophy. The most rewarding experience of the year is the spring induction ceremony in which veteran members welcome new students into the society.



President, Judy Hytten makes her welcoming speech.

Leadership Quality

Kings Park High School invited one of our senators in October to speak about leadership to the student body. Senator Robert Mazarek talked about his background and what influenced him into wanting to become a politician. He told the students how to get involved in leadership activities if they wanted to pursue any type of career that involved and required leadership experience and qualities. At the end of his lecture he opened the floor to any students with questions.

Cream of the Crop

Senior students who were high scorers on the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test given in October of their junior year were recognized by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation. These students received Letters of Commendation or semifinalist status in the scholarship competition for their achievements. These twelve seniors placed in the top one percent of all high school seniors in the United States by virtue of their test scores. Two Kings Park students were named semifinalists, Evan Misshula and Evan Spiegel. These outstanding young men attempted to advance to the finals in the competition; the requirements for consideration to the finals included the information given in an application and essay where the students told about their extra curricular activities, personal viewpoints, and future plans. At stake in the finals are scholarships from corporations and sponsoring colleges ranging from $1000 on up.

The Pride of KP

The 1983 season was a big year for the Kings Park football team, which tallied a 6-3 record. More importantly, though, Craig Biggio, the main reason for the team's success, was named the Hansen Award winner for 1983. This prestigious award is given annually by Newsday to the best football player in Suffolk County as judged by a panel of coaches. Craig, a senior, is the first recipient of the Hansen Award in Kings Park football history. He rushed for 1,317 yards, scoring 30 points on 18 touchdowns, 20 extra points, and a two point conversion. His impressive stats made him the leading rusher and scorer in Suffolk. Ironically, though, he did not begin the season at tailback, his natural position: he started instead at quarterback for the first four games. However, once inserted in the running back spot, he worked sensational backfield magic. Kings Park, 1-3 before the switch, had five victories in the five games that Craig starred at tailback. His superb achievements on the field were hailed by the entire community: many people coming to games just to watch him run. His winning the Hansen resulted in a great outpouring of civic pride from a school and community glad to "be with a winner."

School departments gave a preview of next year's Curriculum Fair. The event, occurring for the second year, had trouble getting off the ground; it was postponed because of inclement weather. However, it took place during the second week of January. Representative teachers from each academic area were able to exhibit the opportunities and specialities within each general subject. Sophomores and juniors gained valuable insight from these demonstrations which introduced the students to new and exciting subjects. By talking to the teachers and seeing completed projects created by previous students, the new students were given a good idea of what was required by courses they might want to take in the future. Students participating in the Curriculum Fair obtained first hand information needed to make decisions concerning their educational futures.

Science

The future of our world depends largely upon advances and discoveries made in science. Each day, old mysteries which had perplexed our ancestors are solved, thus enabling mankind to discover his true place and purpose in the cosmos. But before students at Kings Park High School can attempt to solve these scientific mysteries, they must first learn and understand the basics; namely biology, chemistry, geology and physics. Although it is a long and grueling struggle to comprehend these fields, students must take these courses in order to branch out into the real world after high school. The caliber of teaching in the high school is beyond dispute. Who can ever forget Mr. Staudt's home-made bombs, Mrs. Schoch's exciting double physics classes, or Mr. Merone's Mickey Mouse Fan Club? The quality and humor of the science department will be greatly missed by all students upon graduation.

Math

There is a wide variety of courses offered in the Math Department. Each student can pursue a different area of work. During the past few years, the Math Department has been expanding and changing. One of the major changes is in the computer course. With the computer industry rapidly expanding, many students have enrolled in the computer course. This year, the computers were upgraded. The old machines were replaced with new keyboards. In the future, the Math Department wishes to purchase even more machines.

With all the different areas in the Math Department, even a student with no interest in math, can find a suitable course.

Business and Special Education

Students interested in practical courses such as accounting, business, typing and shorthand explore the offerings of the Business Department. The courses within the department are helpful in preparing students for vocational pursuits and college work, with the future in mind, subjects are taught that increase general knowledge about business regulations and institutions. The courses also help to instill common sense in dealing with money matters while also providing a basic introduction to trade related subjects. Hopefully the total collection of courses in the business department will better prepare students for their futures. The Special Education department formulates a curriculum that is able to help students on a more individual basis. Special Ed assists assigned students in several subjects, including mathematics, English, social studies and science. Teachers aid students to become more productive and confident in both the classroom and the outside world.

Drafting, electronics, graphic arts, and metalworking are some of the courses offered in the Industrial Arts program. An understanding of these subjects is essential for those planning to work in this field. However, these courses are interesting and can be taken solely for pleasure.

Aviation gives the student a basic understanding of flight. After taking this course, the student will have a general idea of piloting and air planes. This course is recommended to anyone who plans to pursue a career in aviation.

Home Economics deals with the various aspects of daily life. It covers such areas as cooking, sewing, and child care. Students learn to cook exotic dishes which are fattening as well as delicious. All areas of sewing are offered. Child Care teaches the student the basic knowledge about parenthood. These courses are available to any student interested in them.

Our school offers the student a chance to express their innermost feelings in creative forms. Hidden talents easily come to light through our excellent teachers. The courses offer a range of skills ranging from drawing and painting to ceramics and graphic arts.

Languages

The concentration of our Language Department centers around the romance languages of Spanish and French. Students are taught about the different cultures of the language they study. In these courses, students attempt to become communicationally literate in the particular language they are studying. Knowledge of either language helps students to expand their own vocabularies and horizons.

The library provides students with an endless supply of information, and is "literally" full of ideas. Our library does not only include books and periodicals, but also an array of audio visual equipment. The librarians are user-friendly, and successful in helping students learn about research. The library is a flowing fountain of knowledge from which all students should drink.

Guidance

Have any questions? Guidance has the answers. Students are given advice pertaining to their interests in colleges, careers, and the military. Guidance counselors provide students with resources to assist them in better realizing their strengths and goals. Among the helpful information devices is a career-occupation computer and a microfilm projector that reproduces college catalogs. The counselors also help with program scheduling, and they tell students when to take important college entrance exams like the SAT and ACT. All in all, Guidance is the place if somebody needs any help in branching out.

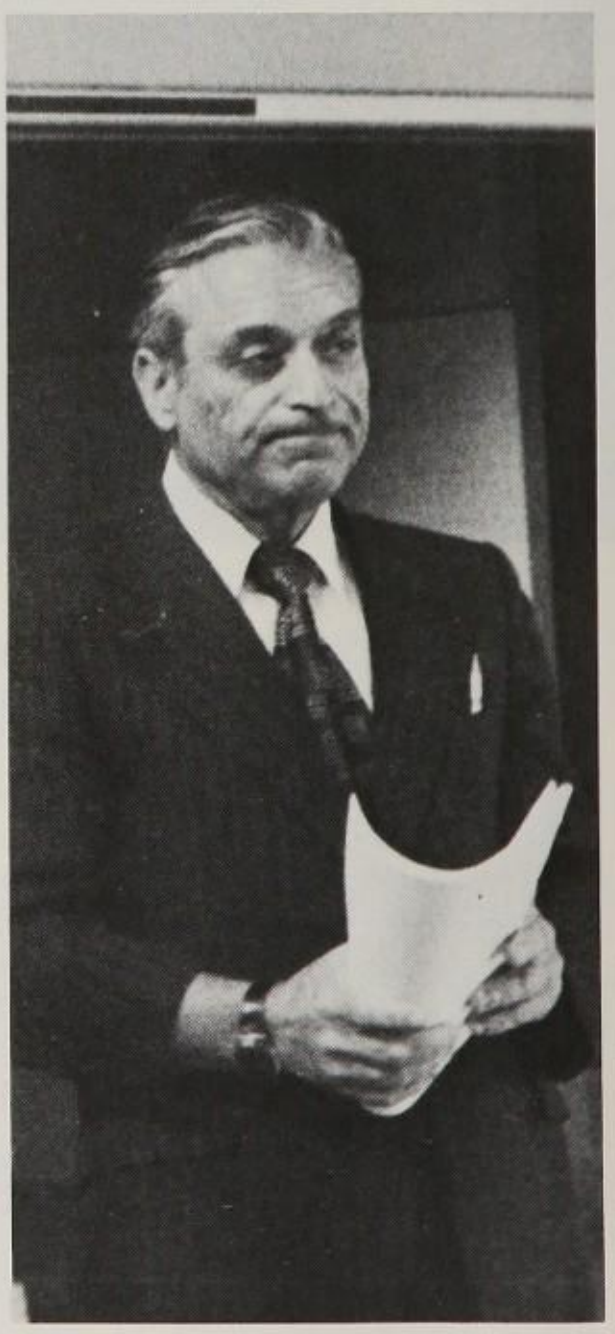
Mr. Melvin Harrison

We Bid Farewell

After twenty-three years of dedicated service as a conselor in the guidance office, Mr. Harrison retired this year in order to pursue new experiences. His leaving the high school was a great loss to students, who always could count on his being available. A graduate of New York University and an English teacher prior to his term as guidance counselor, Mr. Harrison gained respect from colleagues and students alike for his casual demeanor and his deep concern for others. He particularly cared about the students, making a point to cater to their needs. One example of this was his involvement with college scholarship programs.

Mr. Harrison's plans for the future are intentionally vague; after his long career in education, he just wants to relax some place warm, like his new home in Boca Raton, Florida. Whatever he decides to undertake, the student body, faculty, and administrators are behind him; everyone wishes him luck, and hopes that life treats him with the same care and concern that he gave to everyone here.



A typical Mr. Harrison stance.

Secretaries and Aides perform a vital role at Kings Park Senior High School. By maintaining order and keeping the halls free during school hours, Aides provide for a proper learning atmosphere. Secretaries are the link between the administration and the students. Their typing and scheduling is necessary in order to accomplish the duties of the day. A new grading system is also being introduced this year. This system was chosen to encourage a greater effort on the part of the student in gym and to recognize those who show great achievement.

Health education covers a wide range of topics ranging from first aid to sex education. Filmstrips, movies and lectures aid students in the study of their health.

Mr. Philip Milazzo
Assistant Superintendent

In setting the course that the high school is destined to pursue in the future, this year the Board of Education approved several measures to upgrade the school's academic standards. A major step approved for next year is that every student must take a full schedule of seven courses to insure that each student receives the best education that is available to him/ her. This approval complies with the regulations set down by the New York State Commission of Education.

Curriculum additions include courses in Advanced Placement Chemistry, Syracuse University Psychology, geology, and student leadership: a workshop for student government officers. Other new courses, include marine science, Latin, and first aid. These program additions indicate the concern the Board of Education has for the students of this district to attain the best possible education. These steps have been taken to insure that this worthy goal is met.

Board of Education.

Ever since my older brothers and sisters entered the high school, I could not wait to get there myself. Some might think that being a sophomore means being picked on by seniors and juniors, but this is not entirely true. Sure, sophomores are the "babies" of the school, but most sophomores are treated like mature, young adults. We have as much right to express ourselves freely as do juniors, seniors and teachers. This is a good feeling.

Being sophomores, we have the privilege of being treated like adults, and it is also a responsibility. If we want to be treated like adults, we have to act like adults. Being a sophomore means the beginning of the world of adulthood.

All of a sudden it is there. College. Always lurking in the back of one's mind. Our elders preach that College is the reason wby we must do well academically. It all never seemed very real; just something we have to go to when we are much older. Now it is here. What college do you want to go to? ... What are you going to major in? ... What are your grades? ... Are you active in school? ... PSAT's, SAT's, Aptitude Tests, Achievement Tests. It is scary being a junior. Suddenly you are expected to make your own decisions ... alone, to plan your life, know right from wrong.

Being a junior is not all that bad, though. There are so many things to join in or get involved with. So many different people to meet. (And you thought you knew them all!) You now are able to drive a car. See how many people you can fit in a Volkswagon Beetle ... without getting caught! Then there is all of the gossip to catch up on ... who is still going out with who, who was accepted where, what is the best job to get, where the next party is, etc. ... You are CONSTANTLY busy!

Many people say that one's junior year is one's hardest, and I agree. However, it is also the most exciting. So many new and different things happening. More freedom and responsibilities.

Being a junior is something I would never switch for anything in the world - except for maybe being a senior ...

Eleventh grade is finally here, and is just like everyone said it would be. Yet, I always thought it was so far away. I still have trouble realizing the year is already here. This year was inevitable, and so are the pressures and personal drives. It is so important to do well this year because it is "the most important year of high school."

This is the year when we take the PSAT's and SAT's, and it is so hard to deal with the pressure they create. Everyone says you have to do well, if you want to be accepted to a good college. The other thing that enters the mind constantly is grades; yes, grades. Grades are the first things a college considers.

The whole year is academically oriented, but there is one thing that salvages most juniors — THE JUNIOR PROM. This is the time of year when we all let our hair down and run away from all the pressures that have built up during the year. Could you imagine junior year without our PROM? I think that if we did not have that one escape, by the end of the year we would all be eligible for rooms across the street.

The Kings Park Kingsmen football team played an exciting game on Sat. Oct. 15, 1983 against Deer Park. The day began with a parade at 12:00 from Memorial Field to the high school. The band led cheerleaders, class floats, administrators, queens, kickline, and clowns with balloons. Kings Park dominated the first half; the band's halftime show with the kickline was an exciting introduction for the floats and class queens; and for the first, time class kings.

The senior queens with their respected kings Karen Beldy and Ron Buell, Diane Duganis and Phil Maletta, Valerie Pena and Richard Evans, Lynn Ann Czajka and Craig Biggio and homecoming queen and king: Kelly Roach and Ron Seits led the first place float, "Right on Target." Junior queen and king, Renee Noest and Steven Beldy ushered in the second place float, "Pacman", Susan Kelly and Edward Montemurro led in the third place float, "Wheel of Fortune."

The homecoming game kept the fans involved, waiting on the edge of their seats for the final outcome. The score was tied as they entered the third quarter. Then Deer Park scored the winning touchdown. Although Kings Park ultimately lost the game, the team kept it close until the very end . . .

And Justice for All

For the fourth year, Mrs. Masters' criminal justice classes participated in a mock trial. Students played roles such as defendant, plaintiff, defense attorney, prosecutor, judge, bailiff and witnesses. The members of the jury were, for the second year, residents of the St. Johnland Nursing Home.

Sounds of heaven echoed throughout the high school when internationally renowned harpist, Heidi Lehwalder, visited our school, and gave a recital. The lively Mrs. Lehwalder, a harpist in several major orchestras in the United States and Europe, held a "master class" sponsored by the Islip Arts Council. Her performance covered a wide range of musical selections of the classical variety, including many of her personal favorites. All of the solos were crowd-pleasers, each showing the beauty and depth of the harp as an instrument. In the "master class" part of the show, Mrs. Lehwalder pointed out particular nuances and techniques, passing along knowledge that only an expert can give. Additionally, during breaks between compositions, she conducted lively question-and-answer sessions. Owing to the fact that the harp is a unique and rarely seen instrument, the questions were many and varied; this gave Mrs. Lehwalder further opportunity to teach the auidence about the harp while at the same time sharing with the students her casual and friendly personality.

All of the above are sights and sounds of Interclass.

The annual Interclass Competition involves representative groups from the three high school grades and the faculty in a high-spirited contest of skills. Interclass is held to decide who among the seniors, juniors, sophomores and teachers will win the bragging rights of the high school. This is achieved through a series of wacky events; these include scooter racing, a balloon-between-your-legs relay, and an event where the object is to play catch with an egg without breaking it. The best team of the four is the one whose members can place consistently well in each event by virtue of the most unusual abilities.

In this year's competition, the "awesome" senior team showed their bizarre talents, finishing first overall. (As for the other teams, the final order, from second to last, was sophomores, juniors, teachers.) The seniors did it by staying out of last place in each event, leaving that honor to the other teams. Everyone finished first, though, in having a good time, and that is what Interclass is all about.

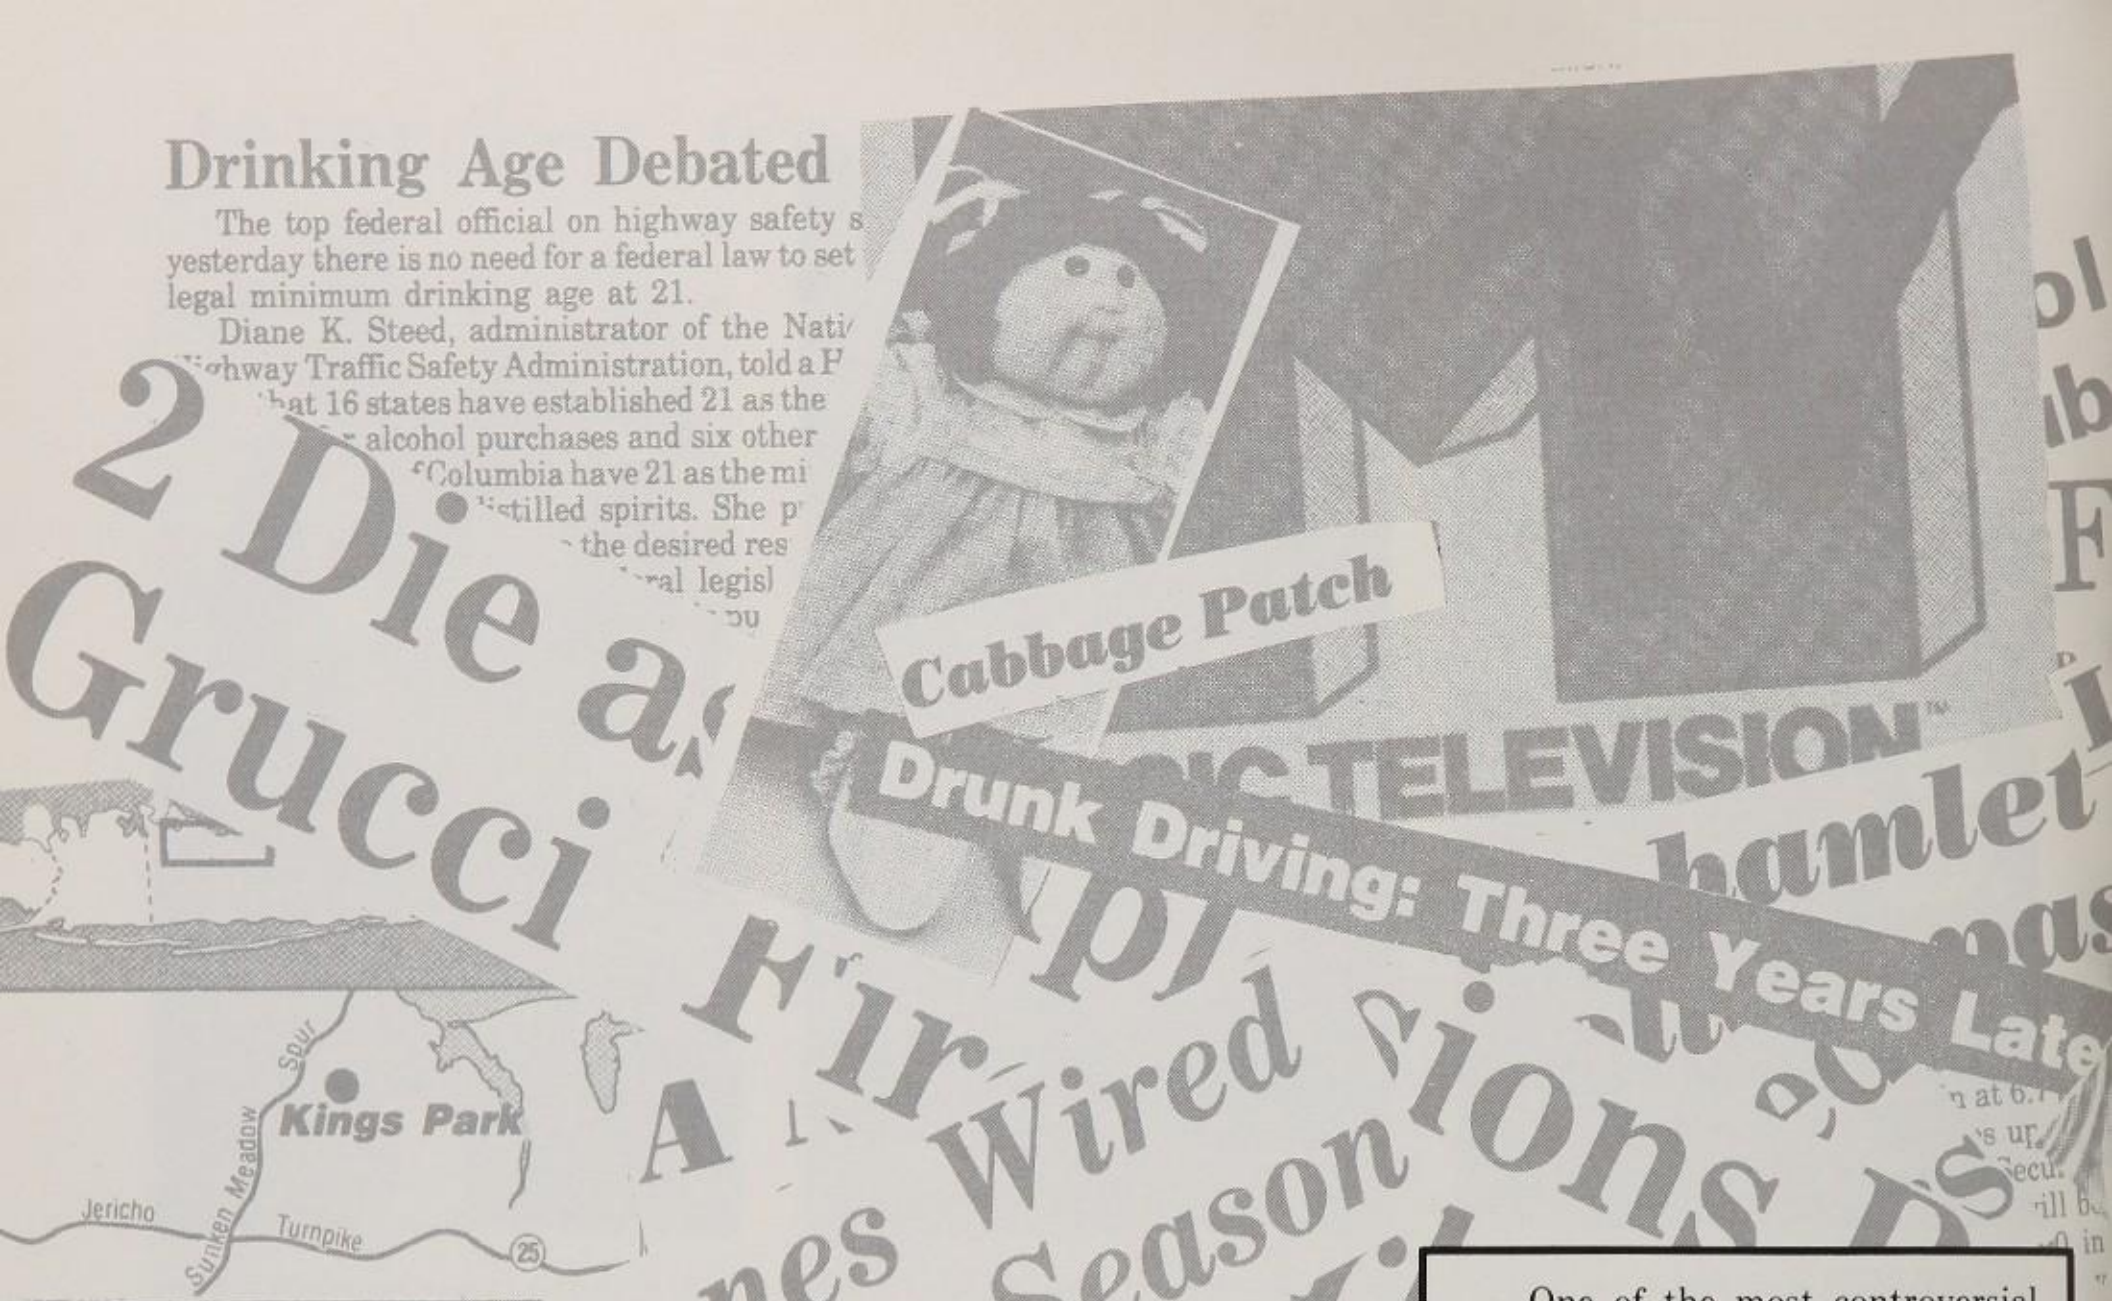
The life of a Kings Park High School student does not end at 1:55 p.m. Outside of school, students become SPECTATORS at sporting events, movies and plays. Students are COMPETITORS at Interclass Competition, pep rallies and Thursday-night recreation. Students are VOLUNTEERS at the Volleyball-Dance Marathon, the Senior Citizen Holiday Dinners and the Marine Corp Christmas Toy Drive. Students are WORKERS at part-time jobs and extracurricular activities. Most of all, however, students are PEOPLE who enjoy living and having a good time.



One of the most controversial local issues is whether or not to open the Shoreham Nuclear Power Plant. An important factor in the Shoreham decision involves the estimated $3.4 billion dollar cost and who will pay it. Shoreham's great expense is one of the main reasons that the people of Suffolk County generally oppose Shoreham. Suffolk's legislature feels investors should absorb some of the costs.

Another problem hampering the start of operations at the Shoreham Nuclear plant is operational defects. These defects include broken bearings and cracked diesel engine shafts. The same difficulties have existed in thirty other reactors in the United States.

Whether or not Shoreham should be opened or not is a question that is difficult to answer. However, it is important for the Suffolk County Officials to make their decision soon, or else they may waste money on something that will prove unfeasible.

At the close of this year, the community of Kings Park will lose a valuable fifty year member: St. Anthony's High School. The Catholic boys' school under the aegis of the Rockville Center Diocese will be relocated to South Huntington and housed in the old Holy Family plant. The new school will be coeducational and will retain the name of St. Anthony's. Kings Park will miss the faculty, staff and students of this educational facility.

On Sunday, November 20, 1983, ABC television aired The Day After, a startling account of the effects of nuclear war. Over 50 million Americans watched this program. The two hour television movie portrayed what life would be like before, during, and after a nuclear attack on the United States. Although it was a vivid picture of what life would be like during such an attack, in reality it did not even approach portraying how devastating the effects could be. The nuclear attack is seen through the eyes of a doctor who lives in Kansas City who survives the explosion, and must confront the physical and emotional suffering in its aftermath. From the scene of desperate panic before the blast, to the death and destruction in its wake, The Day After was not an easy movie to watch. Because it so vividly portrays the destructive potential of nuclear war is the reason that all people should view this film. Ignoring the threat of nuclear war does not make it go away; it is important that everyone have an understanding of the consequences of failing to prevent "the day after." The danger of nuclear war is the greatest threat the world has ever faced, but it does not have to happen.

If enough people work closely with their governments in helping to prevent such a catastrophe, the challenge can be met. Millions of people, both in and out of government, are working to prevent the holacaust depicted in The Day After from becoming reality. Each one of us is important to this effort.

During the past year, there has been a legal battle over the Baby Jane Doe case. This involved the issue of a six-week old baby suffering from spina bifida, an abnormality of the spine which, if not corrected, would result in death in infancy. Her parents had decided that surgery should not be performed. If the parents had chosen to have the doctors operate, the infant might live as long as twenty years. Parents, physicians, right-to-life advocates, civil libertarians, and the state and federal governments have been involved in this case. Two legal struggles ensued. The state's case involved her treatment; whether or not the state has the right to override the parents' decision to operate, and mandate surgery for the infant. The federal government's case involved her medical records, and whether it had the right to force the University Hospital at Stony Brook to release them to a government agency. These records were believed to contain evidence as to whether or not her civil rights had been violated by her parents' decision not to perform surgery. The Court of Appeals upheld the position that the parents had acted responsibly, and that Baby Doe should not be subjected to surgery. Leonard Wexler, a United State District Court judge, handed down the decision that the hospital should not be ordered to turn over the infant's records to the government because there was enough evidence showing that Baby Jane Doe did not suffer discrimination because of her handicap, and that the government had failed to find discrimination in the actions of her parents. This case has aroused great controversy. It concerns an emotional issue that is not yet resolved.

The years of 1983-84 have shown further advances in the area of civil rights. These years marked a first time for women and blacks in several categories. Sally Ride became the first woman in space as she orbited the Earth for six days aboard the space shuttle Challenger. Vanessa Williams became the first black woman ever to be crowned Miss America. Jesse Jackson has taken an active part in American politics. In January, he successfully helped free an American held captive in Syria. His presidential campaign has been acquiring support in many states, and he stands an excellent chance of becoming, if not the first black presidential candidate, at least the first black vice-presidential candidate. Also in 1984, Martin Luther King became the first black person ever to be honored by the entire nation. The concept of Martin Luther King Day has become a reality after much controversy. Martin Luther King Day has been designated as the third Monday in January beginning in 1985.

After the devastating terrorist attack on the Marine head-quarters in Beirut, a special investigation set up by the Pentagon has determined that the performance of military officers was at fault.

The findings from this report concluded that "the entire chain of command" all the way up to and including General Bernard Rogers, head of the United States European Command, bore responsibility for their failure to protect the marines. Although the officers won't receive any serious punishment, it is indicated by Defense Department officials that the officers may receive letters of reprimand and might, in turn, affect future promotions.

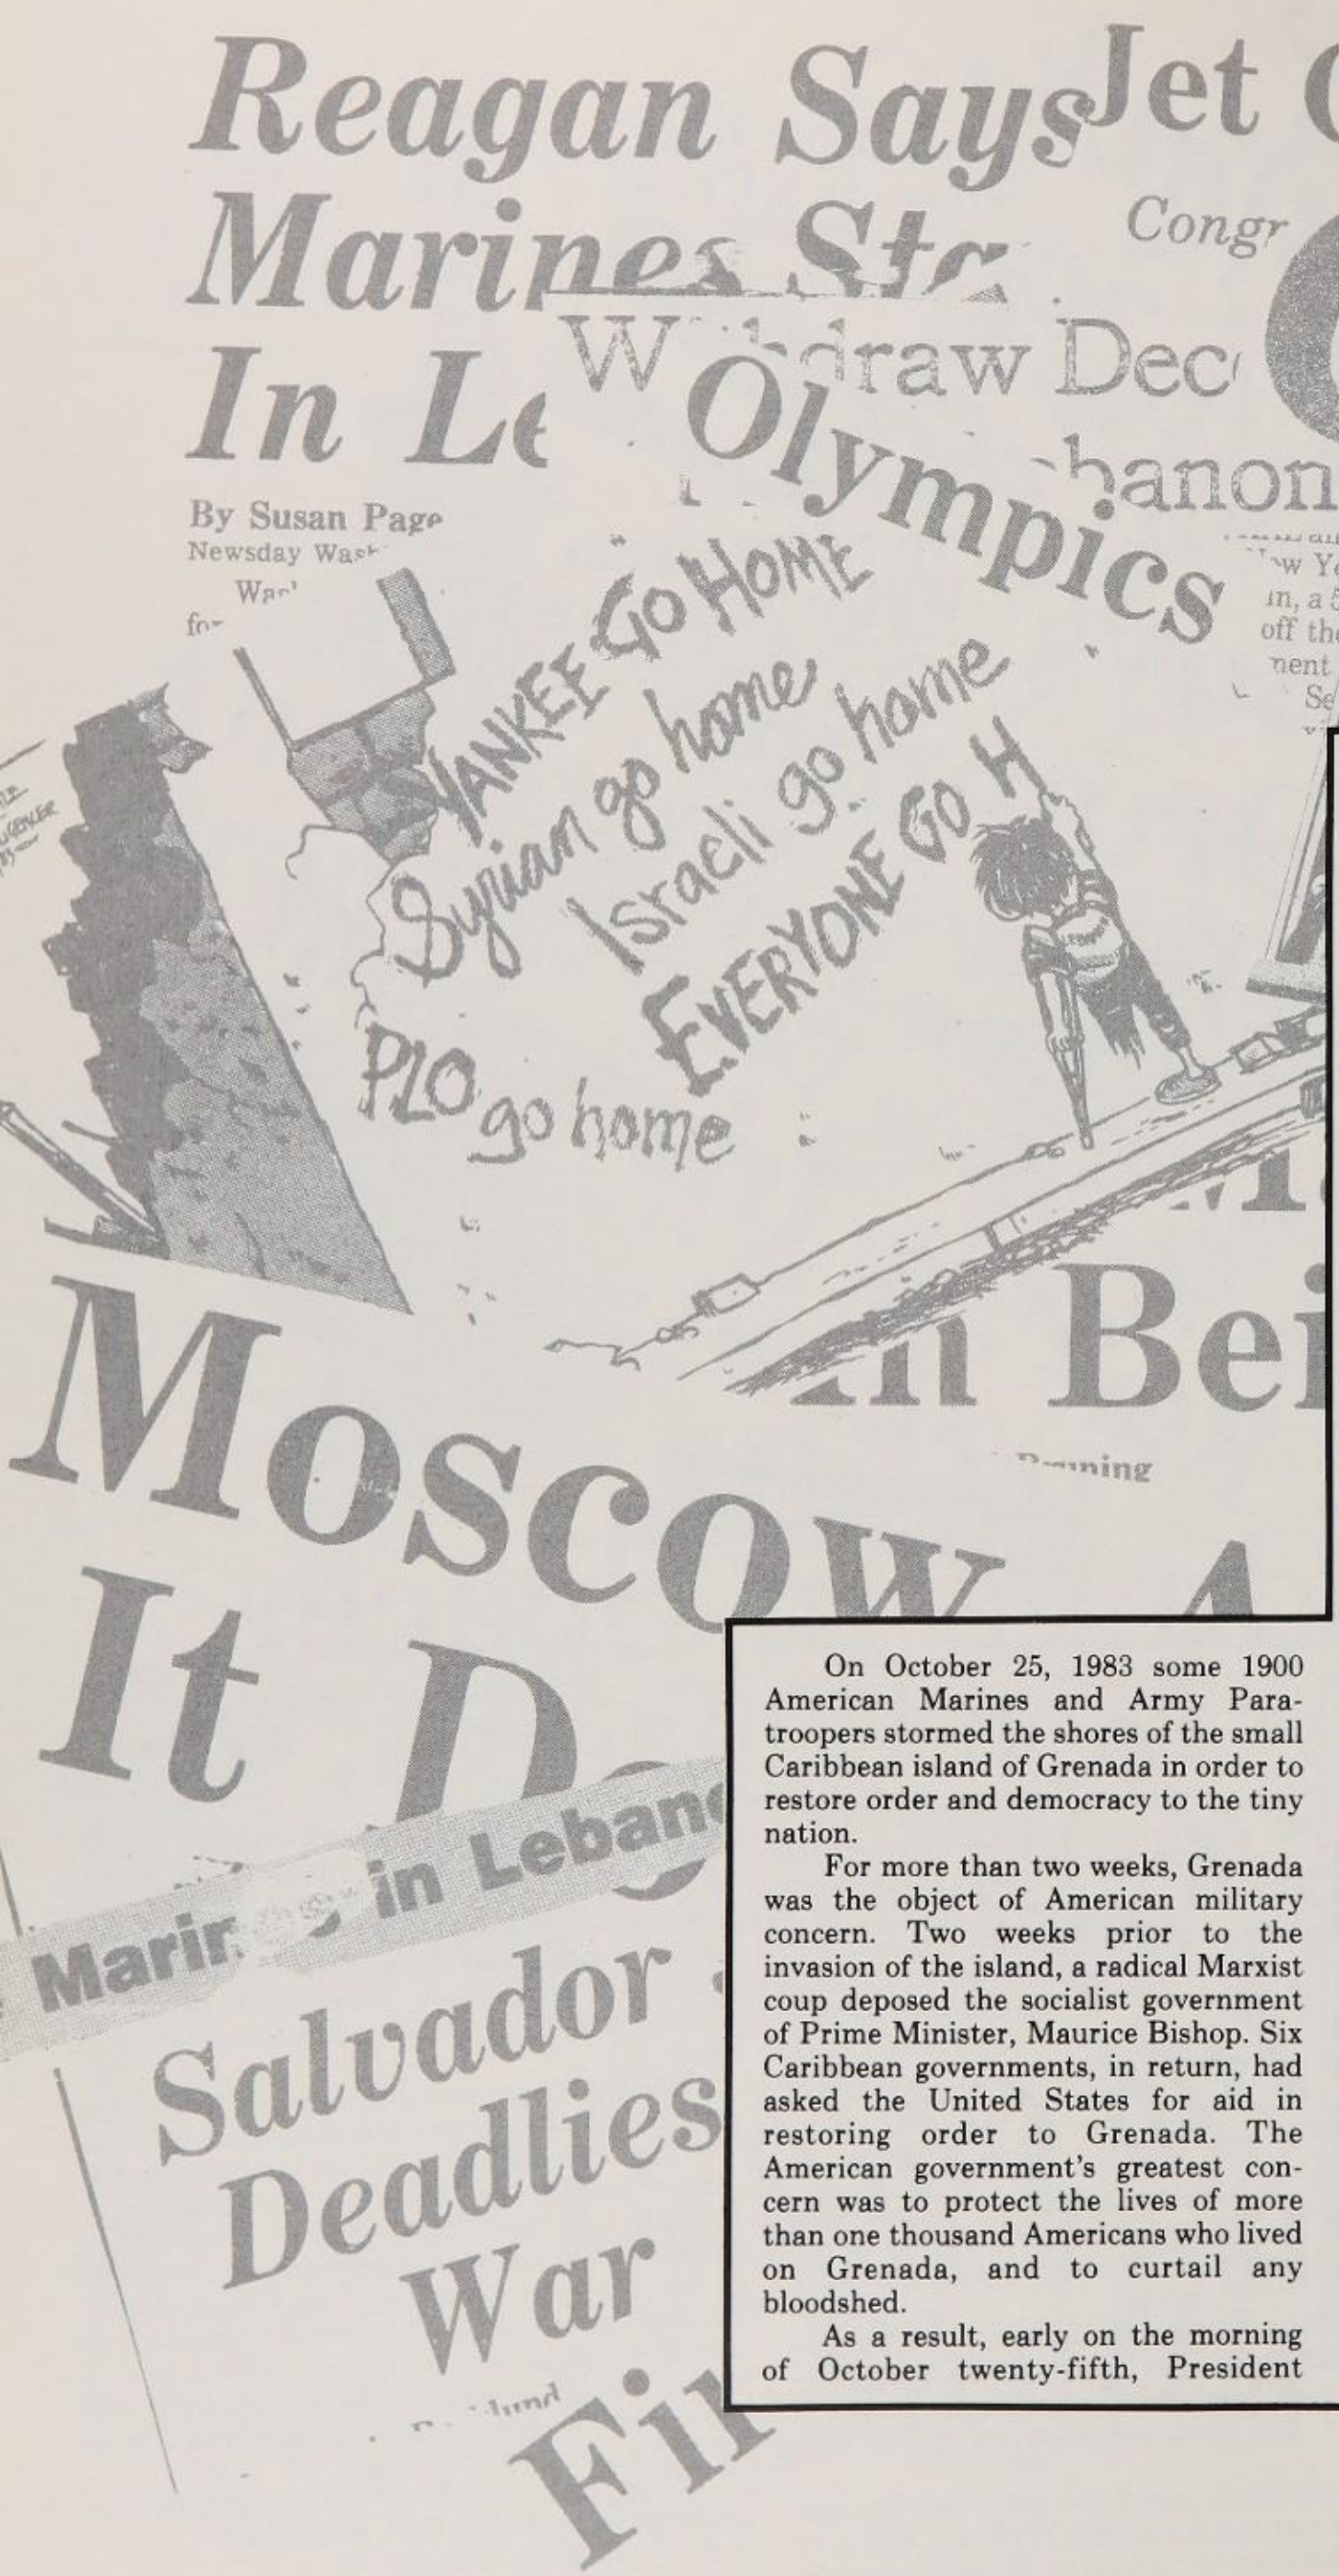
We have to come to grip with the fact that today's terrorists are better armed and financed. They e more sophisticated. They are possessed by a fatical intensity that individuals of a democratic society can only barely comprehend. I do not believe, therefore, that the local commanders on the ground — men who have already suffered quite enough — should be punished for not fully comprehending the nature of today's terrorist threat. If there is to be blame, it properly rests here in this office and with this President. And I accept the responsibility for the bad as well as the good.

In this holiday season our minds are drawn more than ever to the Middle East, and while the of this region has been the anguish certainly



On October 25, 1983 some 1900 American Marines and Army Paratroopers stormed the shores of the small Caribbean island of Grenada in order to restore order and democracy to the tiny nation.

For more than two weeks, Grenada was the object of American military concern. Two weeks prior to the invasion of the island, a radical Marxist coup deposed the socialist government of Prime Minister, Maurice Bishop. Six Caribbean governments, in return, had asked the United States for aid in restoring order to Grenada. The American government's greatest concern was to protect the lives of more than one thousand Americans who lived on Grenada, and to curtail any bloodshed.

As a result, early on the morning of October twenty-fifth, President Reagan dispatched the invading force along with eighteen American transport planes, and an eleven-ship Navy task force led by the aircraft carrier, Independence. At 5:30 a.m. paratroopers dropped onto the tarmac of the two Grenadian airports: Point Saline and Pearl. It was at these posts that the first gunshots were fired. These troops were backed by 300 troops from other military installations in the Caribbean. Aided by these backup forces, the American troops were able to bring order to the island.

While the Americans had received opposition from the Grenadians during the invasion, they did not expect to incur any more at its conclusion. President Reagan received much criticism from such public figures as the Prime Minister of Great Britain, Margaret Thatcher. She stated in the House of Commons that she had considerable doubts about the invasion. This military action also angered Charles R. Modica, Chancellor and Chairman of the Board of Trustees of St. George's University School of Medicine, a Grenadian institution attended by 650 American students. Modica said that, prior to the current crisis, life for the student-residents had been quite tranquil, but during the invasion the safety of the students was threatened. The Soviet Union also declared that America should withdraw its troops; many critics believed that the invasion was a violation of international law. The United States clearly disregarded whether or not the action was a violation of the law, and embarked up on an adventure that involved the first use of military force since the Iranian Crisis. America continued to maintain his position, and President Reagan stated that the military action was a success.

Order and democracy was restored to the tiny island of Grenada.

Perhaps one of the most important events of recent years occurred in a previously little heard of country called Lebanon. There civil war rages amongst various ethnic and religious factions. This little country has been center stage in the news for the past year.

American Marines, aided by French, Italian and British troops were called in to keep the peace and to preserve the leadership of one Amin Gemayel. Many American politicians, who opposed this move on the grounds that they were "sitting ducks," were proved correct when in October of '83 the American and French barracks were blown to smithereens by a suicide bomber. A staggering total of 241 American Marines were killed, and countless others wounded. As the Lebanese government seemed to crumble under increased pressure, the American boys were withdrawn to ships in the Mediterranean Sea in January of 1984. The future of this befuddled little country looks bleak.

ROOTS: origin . . . core . . .

At the heart of every school is the community which encompasses it. The community is the roots from which all else springs. In size, our community is small. However, there is no lack of people willing to help. These people serve as our example as we reach for our stars.

This section of the yearbook is devoted to those people in our community. Their support and understanding has been a driving force behind our efforts and is greatly appreciated.

Fine Cuisine

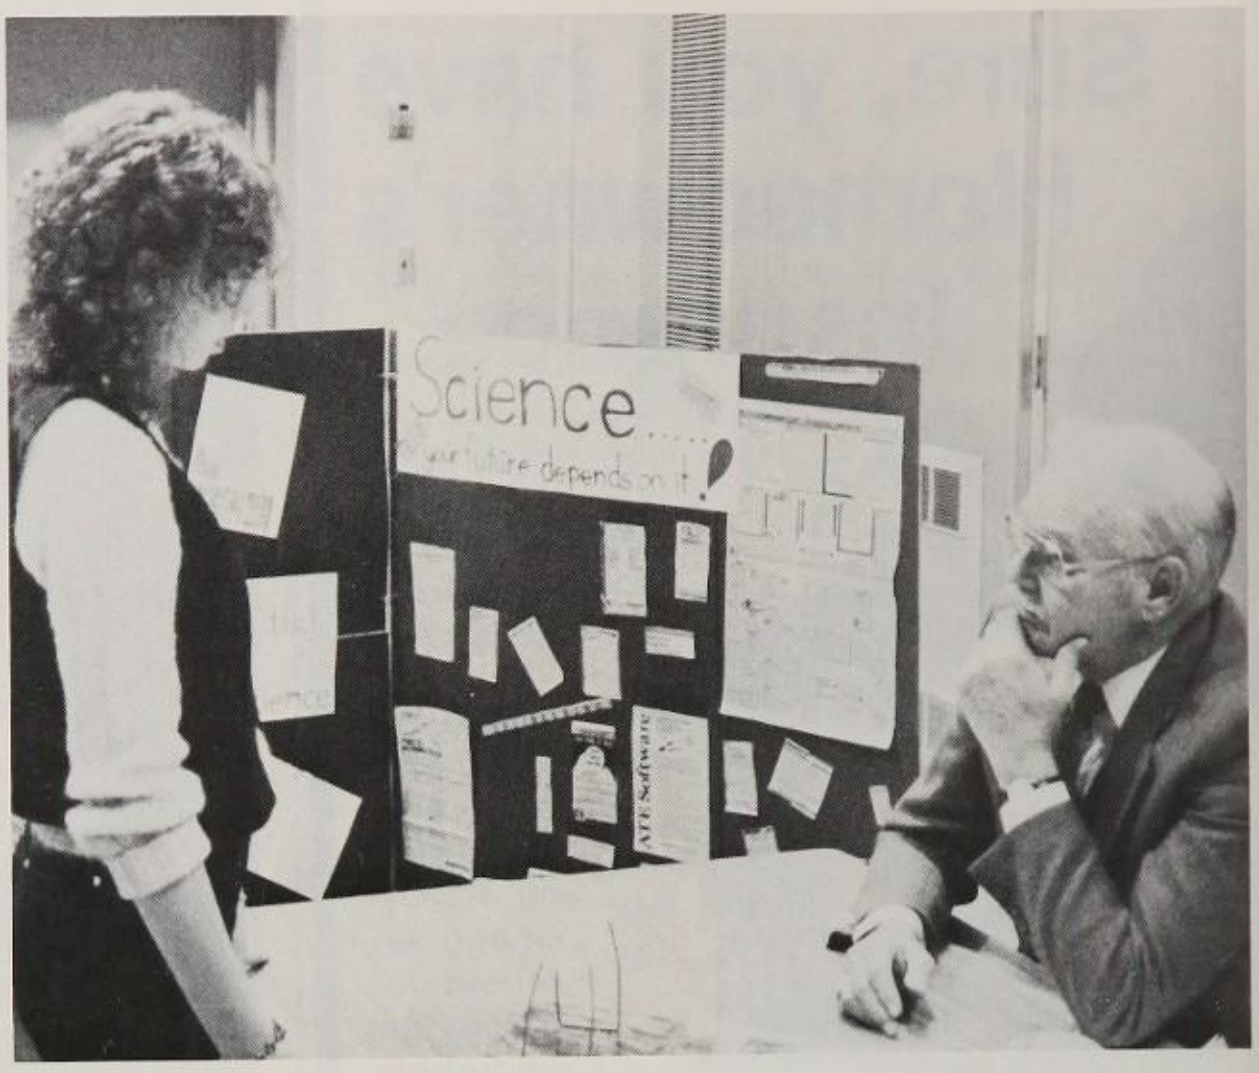
We Bid Adieu . . .

A much-respected and well-liked faculty member will soon be leaving the Kings Park High School Science Department. Mr. George Duffy, II, who has spent eighteen years teaching at Kings Park, five of these as department chairman, will be retiring this year.

Mr. Duffy attended Vanderbilt University in Nashville, Tennessee, C.W. Post, Brown, and the Polytechnic Institute of New York at Brooklyn; he also worked for many years for a newspaper.

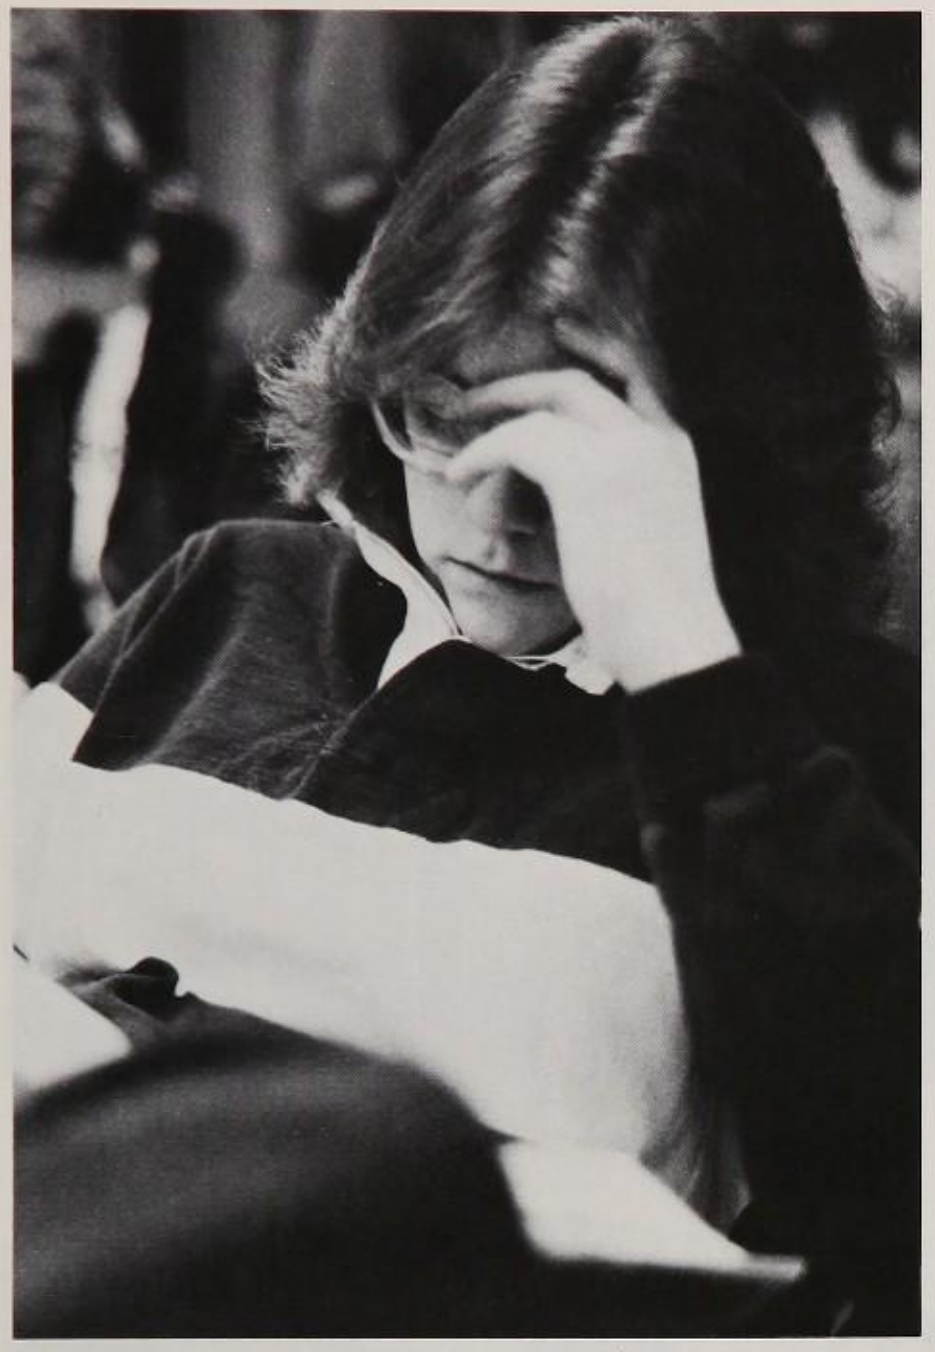
Mr. Duffy plans to remain on the Island, and looks forward to working with his son. Each of his six children graduated from Kings Park, and his oldest son is also a member of our fine Science Department. Mr. Duffy enjoys being with his children and grandchildren, fishing, and watching Kings Park sports — "especially football!" He plans to return for many games!

"Being at Kings Park has been the nicest part of my life . . . I have enjoyed it!" And so have many students and faculty members enjoyed knowing Mr. Duffy - he will be greatly missed; we wish him much happiness.

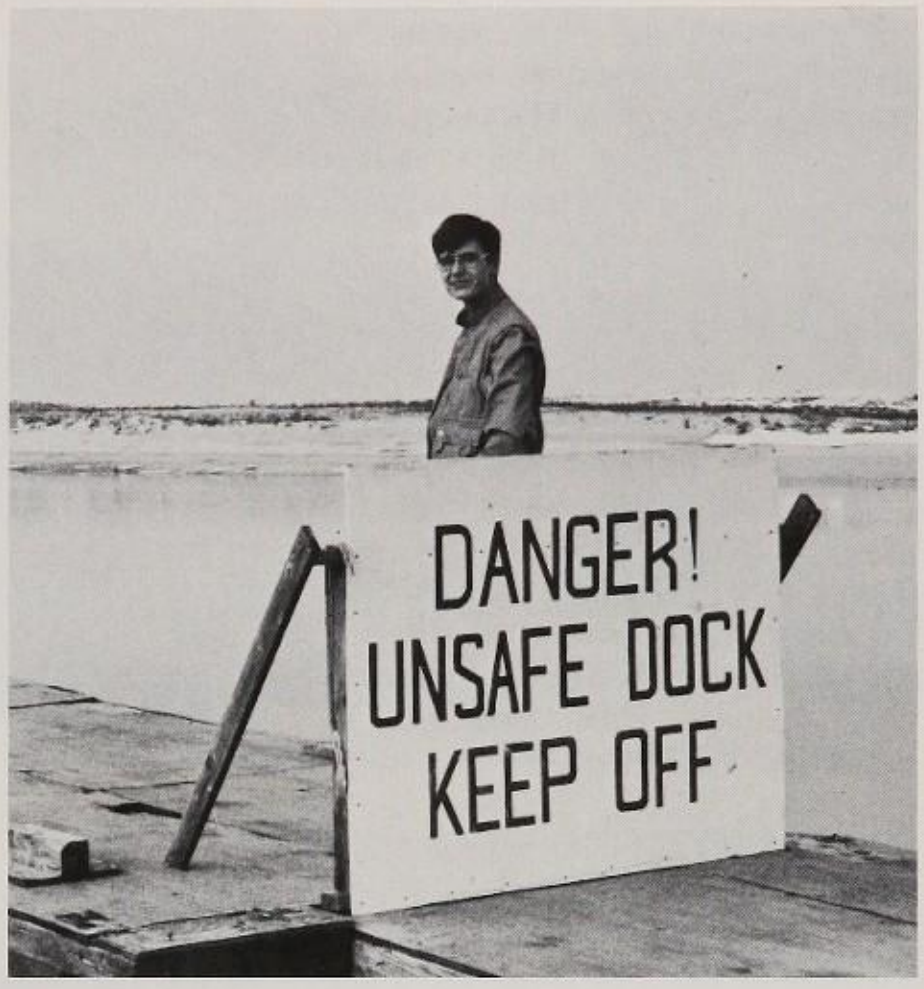


Mr. George Duffy gives Tammy Stenn advice regarding her science courses for next year.

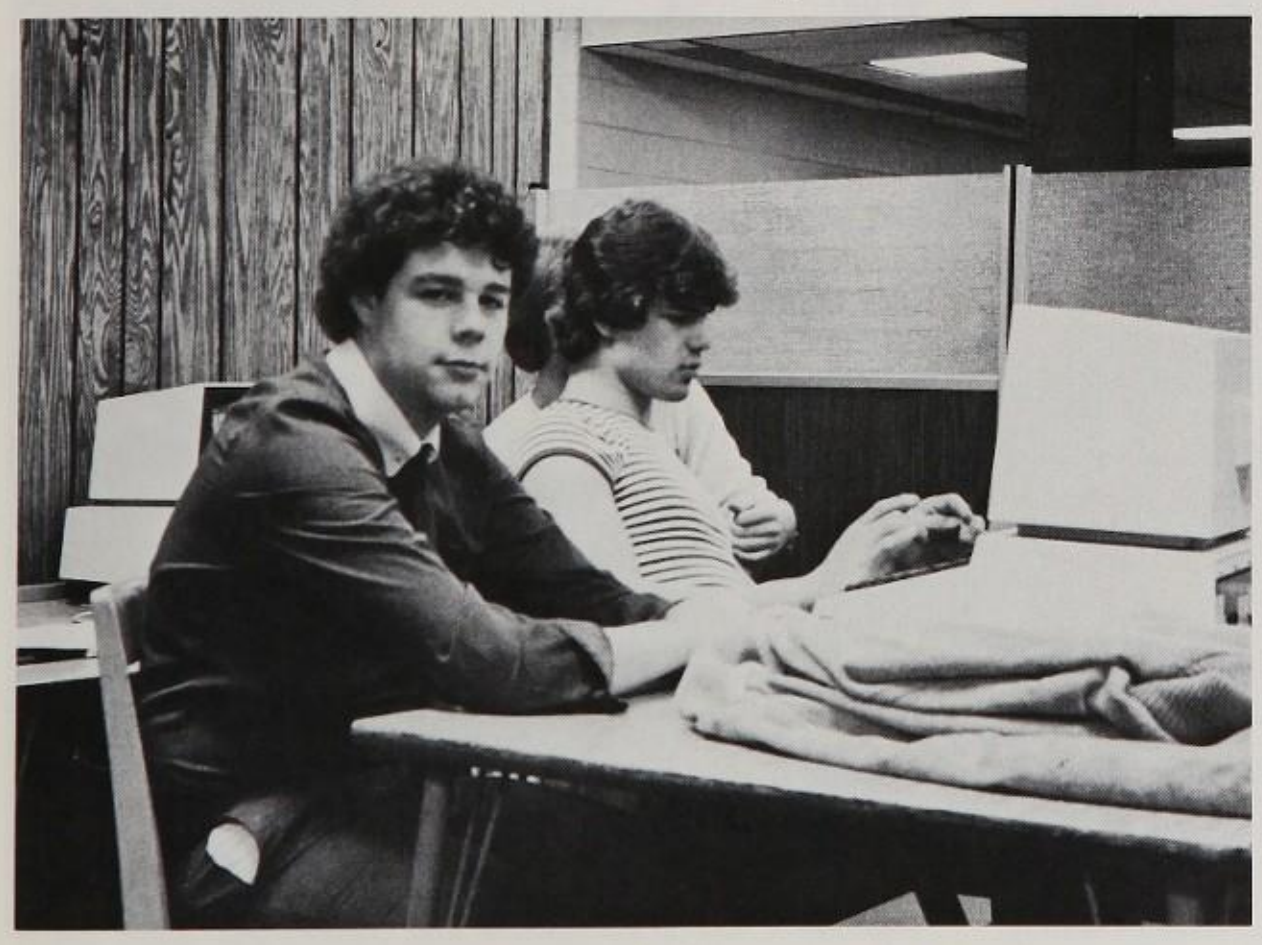
Mr. Duffy enjoying a cup of coffee in the science department center.



Patti Roach deeply into the book she is reading.



Andy Berko following directions as always.



Chris Flaherty and Scott Werkstell exploring the new methods on the computer.

Evan Spiegel going for the kill in volleyball.

The Right Stuff

Athletic Director, Art Snelders, came to Kings Park School District twenty-seven years ago, and began coaching in 1965. It would be hard for us to recall that far back, but Mr. Snelders has no problem remembering all his years of coaching. Mr. Snelders was quite successful as a coach. His teams had over 300 victories: league champions eleven times in basketball and soccer.

Mr. Snelders is, by nature, a humble man, so he would never infer that he personally was responsible for his teams' many wins. But most people know better. For his outstanding achievements both on and off the playing field, the New York State Coaches Association presented Mr. Snelders with a special Honor Award in Syracuse this January. Mr. Snelders is definitely a winner!

Mr. Snelders always hard at work.

Let it be known that senior, Edward Sisler, has received first place in the "Voice of Democracy" contest sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars. The award was presented to Ed for his outstanding tape-recorded speech on the topic, "How I Uphold the Constitution." Sophomores, James Reily and Edward Goutink, were runners-up in the contest. Each of these silver-tongued students will receive a United States savings bond.

Congratulations to all three on their success in voicing their ideas and coming up winners!

My Sweet Valentine

Forest Gillman and Amy Seidenstock delivering flowers to a lucky recipient.

The Kings Park Debate Club sponsors a flower sale every Valentine's Day in order to raise money for their club. It is always successful. You can purchase a flower indicating love (red), affection (pink), or friendship (white). Everyone gets involved and has fun — faculty, staff and students.

Ria Piesner, chairman of the sale, busy at work selling flowers.

Karen Beldy, Lee Orlando and Michele Costa had a wonderful Valentine's Day.

Michele Pascarell reacts at receiving such beautiful flowers.

Kings Park

Recently Kings Park has been undergoing an extensive renovative process. Pavements made of brick, benches, and lights have been added to Main Street under a program designed to improve the appearance of our town. Kings Park started as a small hamlet whose inhabitants depended on the state hospital for their livelihood. Today, some of the buildings existing in Kings Park remain from that bygone era. Many of the storefronts in Kings Park still retain an old-fashioned flavor. This gives the town an outdated look. To give the community a better aesthetic appearance, as well as promote a sense of unity, the renovation program has been undertaken. The plan calls for the complete redecoration of Main Street, including the establishment of benches, and a public plaza.

Kings Park Travel has renovated its storefront; an old K.P. business with a new look.

The renovation of Main Street is a slow process, but when finished the town will be proud of its new look.

Winter in Kings Park has its own particular beauty.

The heart of Kings Park.

The Long Island Railroad going to NYC from Kings Park.

Sunken Meadow will always be a nice place to go to.

In many ways, 1984 commences a face-lift for the community of Kings Park. The new sidewalks, lampposts and parking lot built under the auspices of the Town Development Project, and the remodeling of the bank on the corner of Main Street and Church Street have brought a new look to the town. There is talk of moving the post office and of implementing changes in the State Psychiatric Hospital.

Some things in Kings Park, however, will never change. For Kings Park High School students, the community is our roots, the foundation of our development. Although many changes may occur in the town itself, we, in our minds, will always have our own picture and personal memory of Kings Park.

Kings Park's pride and joy — The Bluff.

A scenic view from The Bluff.

The Long Island Sound; a soothing sight.

The Kings Park community grew up partly dependent on its beaches as a livelihood. Today, although the fishing community of Kings Park has vanished, the beach still plays an important role in the community. It gives to Kings Park both recreation and a lovely natural environment.

The rolling waters of the Long Island Sound on the border of Kings Park form a natural coastline of drifting sands and lofty cliffs. The refreshing waters of Sunken Meadow and Callahan's Beaches provide relief for hot Kings Parkers during the summer. During the late spring and summer, the beach reaches its peak of popularity. At this time out-of-towners come to enjoy the cool waters of these beaches. They add a touch of distinction to Kings Park. During winter and the other seasons, the beaches attract nature lovers and runners. It can truly be said that the beaches provide enjoyment all year long from the first spring bud until the last whistle of the winter wind. It is one of Kings Park's best attributes.

The nights at Sunken Meadow Beach are beautiful.

FRUIT: outcome . . . product . . .

result . . . seniors

This is it; our time has come
To let down our hair and have some fun;
Our last year together, and we want to make the most
Of ten short months, so we start to coast . . .

September rolls around and school begins
By October acute senioritis sets in November is spent trying to decide
Which colleges will accept us and where to apply.

In December we experience a new sensation:
A blend of fear, anxiety and frustration;
We stay awake and wonder with vexation
How we'll finish applications before Christmas vacation?

But alas the hour must come
For a realization to be felt by some
Who endear themselves for a college's selection
And get their first real taste of rejection.

Second semester will soon arrive
And somehow we manage to survive
Suddenly our grades mysteriously drop
Another week, and all homework will stop.

We wonder if we will ever receive
Any senior privileges before we leave;
But soon our visions turn astray
To Senior Prom and Graduation Day.

Into the Real World we are cast
No more hall passes — free at last!
Different directions we now must roam
Carrying with us our memories of home.

Ron Seits, an outstanding senior.

Often there exists in a school, students who do so much more than just attend classes. They give their all not only to their studies — but also to the members of the school and community. Kings Park is very proud to have many such students and wants to acknowledge these outstanding young people.

This year the teachers were asked to select students to be named "Outstanding Seniors." Those chosen were: Andrew Berko, Robin Faber, Maggie Ho, Judith Hytten, Corey Keppler, Monique Lodi, Ronald Seits, and Gayle Tillman.

These are students who have given "that extra something," who have had a definite impact on the school and the community. They are being recognized for their service to others, for their dedication to their scholastic endeavors, and for their active participation in extra-curricular activities.

We are proud to congratulate these truly outstanding young people. We wish them continued success in all they do.

The years creep by slow ... slow ... and yet time goes so fast, learning more each day ... and getting wiser as you grow ... And now when you finally realize ... just how much high school ... has been in your heart and soul it is difficult to accept that some things are over forever: Never again ... to run for the bus ... as it starts to rain ... and forget your homework ... as you go insane ... Never again ... to drop your books ... or get ... detention ... for yelling something ... you'd rather not mention ... Never again ... to play foosball in lunch ... while cutting out of class ... then go to guidance ... and ask for a pass ... Never again ... to be yelled at ... for not saying "I pledge allegiance ... " ... Never again to take another regents ... Never again ... to have no worries ... except what to wear the next day? ... when you'll finish that book? ... what to say to that boy in your math class? ... who you'll go to the prom with? ... and what's for lunch? ... And never again to be a high school senior ... You begin to wonder many things ... all those good times you shared together ... and what more tomorrow brings ... To think and to choose ... to make your own decisions ... There's so much to win ... and yet so much to lose ... You have learned so much ... yet have so many questions to ask ... Who can tell you what you want to know? ... What can you reach out to and touch? ... What will the future hold? ... You look back at your past ... as a time in your life comes to an end ... the world out there seems so big ... you wonder how long you will last ... Now as you go out on your own ... it's time to say thank you ... to your friends for understanding you ... to your teachers for helping you ... knowing that you'll never be alone ... where there is sharing ... there is friendship ... always knowing someone will be there ... forever knowing you and always caring ... knowing you can be open and true ... where there is honesty ... there is understanding ... Being there to help and guide ... a smile to gladden the heart ... and calm the frequent fears ... forever by each other's side ... Judy Hytten

Our school has always meant a lot to me. I'm the one you always see at the school activities; wearing a Kings Park shirt and hat with a Kings Park banner in my hand. I'm the mouth you hear at the football games, and over the school's P.A. Our school is full of friendly, caring people — and I love it! I'm always willing to lend a hand to someone.

My main interest is music: listening, writing, playing, and, of course, performing. I hope to pursue a career in music. I also love the New York Islanders and I spend time being a devoted fan. I enjoy writing, drama, talking, joking, and being with family and friends.

I don't want to leave Kings Park High School. It's as if your diploma takes your childhood away and says, "Welcome to the real world!" I wish the class of '84 and all other classes much happiness and success in the years to come. - Robin Faber

I think that Kings Park is an excellent school and will get even better in the future. I like Kings Park so much because it gives people the chance to do so many things; not just in school, but also in the community.

People who don't appreciate our school, probably don't put effort into improving it. They don't receive any enjoyment from their experiences in the high school.

Kings Park also gives students an opportunity to have many hobbies outside of school. Kings Park is located on the water, and gives people the chance to enjoy water sports as well as many others. My hobbies include sailing, scuba diving, and lacrosse.

I would like to wish the class of '84 the best of luck, and the class should remember that hard work and determination guarantees success. — Corey Keppler

Very shortly, all of us will be experiencing new adventures, we will be moving on, taking another step on the ladder of maturity.

Sometimes when I sit back and think about it, I do not want to leave Kings Park High School. It has given me the opportunity to accomplish many things, meet many people, and most of all, it has allowed me to be a member of the class of 1984; a class that will be remembered for its spirit, enthusiasm, and accomplishments.

But it is for these same reasons that I really do not mind the fact that I will be leaving Kings Park. Since it has given me so much, I know that I will be able to achieve the goals that I have set for myself.

As the years go by, many of us will lose touch, and perhaps never see each other again for many years. However, we will always have our memories of the times we spent together. We have gone to basketball and football games, proms and concerts, been late for class (and cut out, too!), run out of gas at the homecoming parade, beat the juniors at Interclass, played foosball, and have grown up together. Through all of this we have grown to be friends.

To the Class of 1984 — I wish you all much success and happiness in the future. I would like to see everyone make their dreams come true. All of us have been given the privilege of being born into a democratic society which means that we can be whatever and whoever we wish. Take this opporunity to achieve and accomplish — and make a life for yourself that will be filled with happiness. Thanks for being my friends — you will always be in my thoughts! - Monique Lodi

Being recognized as an 'outstanding senior' is a great honor for I am among a class of outstanding seniors! Through four years of school, five hundred individuals have helped each other grow and understand life. This is what makes this class so special and so unique. I am proud to be a part of this class and am even more proud to be a part of this school.

You — the teachers, the faculty, and the students — have made a lasting impression on me. As we go our separate ways, and as time goes by, I hope you will remember these four years of high school as I will. - Maggie Ho

In 1948, George Orwell wrote his famous novel 1984, which depicts the lives of people under the dictatorship and total control of government and state. From the reading of such a powerful novel, one ultimately realizes the dangers of such a totalitarian state of government, and perhaps the greatest realization occurs when one begins to parallel the governmental policies and practices which occurred in 1984 to the actual governmental policies and practices of today.

Here we are - 1984 has arrived. As we set forth into this new, exciting, and competitive world, we take on a great challenge and an immense responsibility. We are the Class of 1984, and we take on the formidable task of changing and improving our future country, our people, and our only home in the universe - this planet - Earth.

From the past, we have learned that many things which were thought of as impossibilities, often become possible when we do not repress our imagination and our natural ability in solving the perplexing and complex mysteries of the Cosmos. Take for example, the television series "Star Trek." When it was made, the concept of real space travel was considered by most as being unrealistic and not possible - at least for another 1,000 years. Today, however, we have witnessed the landing of men on the moon, the launching of space shuttles and space stations, in addition to the Voyagers and Pioneers which have taken us above and beyond our earthly dome. If we, the Class of 1984, continue to reach for the stars throughout our lives, then there is nothing to hold us back from going, "Where no man has gone before."

YOU AND I

At 8:00 PM on May 21, 1983, the class of 1984 was transformed from everyday students to elegant ladies and gentlemen attending our junior prom, "You and I," held at the luxurious Colonie Hill. The night that had been talked about for weeks had come. Though a downpour whipped around us, it did not dampen the air of festivity and excitement that surrounded the place. The night began with all of us scurrying under umbrellas, but continued with dining, dancing, and laughter. The food was delicious, music was performed by a live band, and the DJ was great. The night full of fun among days of schoolwork and pressure ended all too soon.

The King and Queen of the Junior Prom, Linda Merrick and Charlie Villano and their court; Ron Buell, Karen Beldy, Kelley Roche, and Ron Seits.

LEAVES: seasonal ... color ... active ... clubs and sports

Imagine if every teenager said to themselves, "the two o'clock bell rings, and I'm out of here. School's over!" In reality what they would be saying is, "who needs a comprehensive education?" If everyone had this attitude, then there would be no high school extra-curricular activities because no one would want to "hang out" at school. There would be no Art or Science or Math or Interact Clubs . . . or even a Mickey Mouse Club! In fact, right at this moment you probably wouldn't be holding this yearbook, because, of course, there would be no yearbook staff to create it. Who needs sports, clubs and school activities anyway? They have nothing to do with education! Right? WRONG! They are an integral part of everyone's education. Extra-curricular activities enhance all of our lives, and allow the development of new friendships. These activities give us the chance to develop personal talents. Through social interaction we learn to communicate and are more able to enjoy the world in which we exist. The magic word is INVOLVEMENT, and this is what extra-curricular activities and sports are all about.

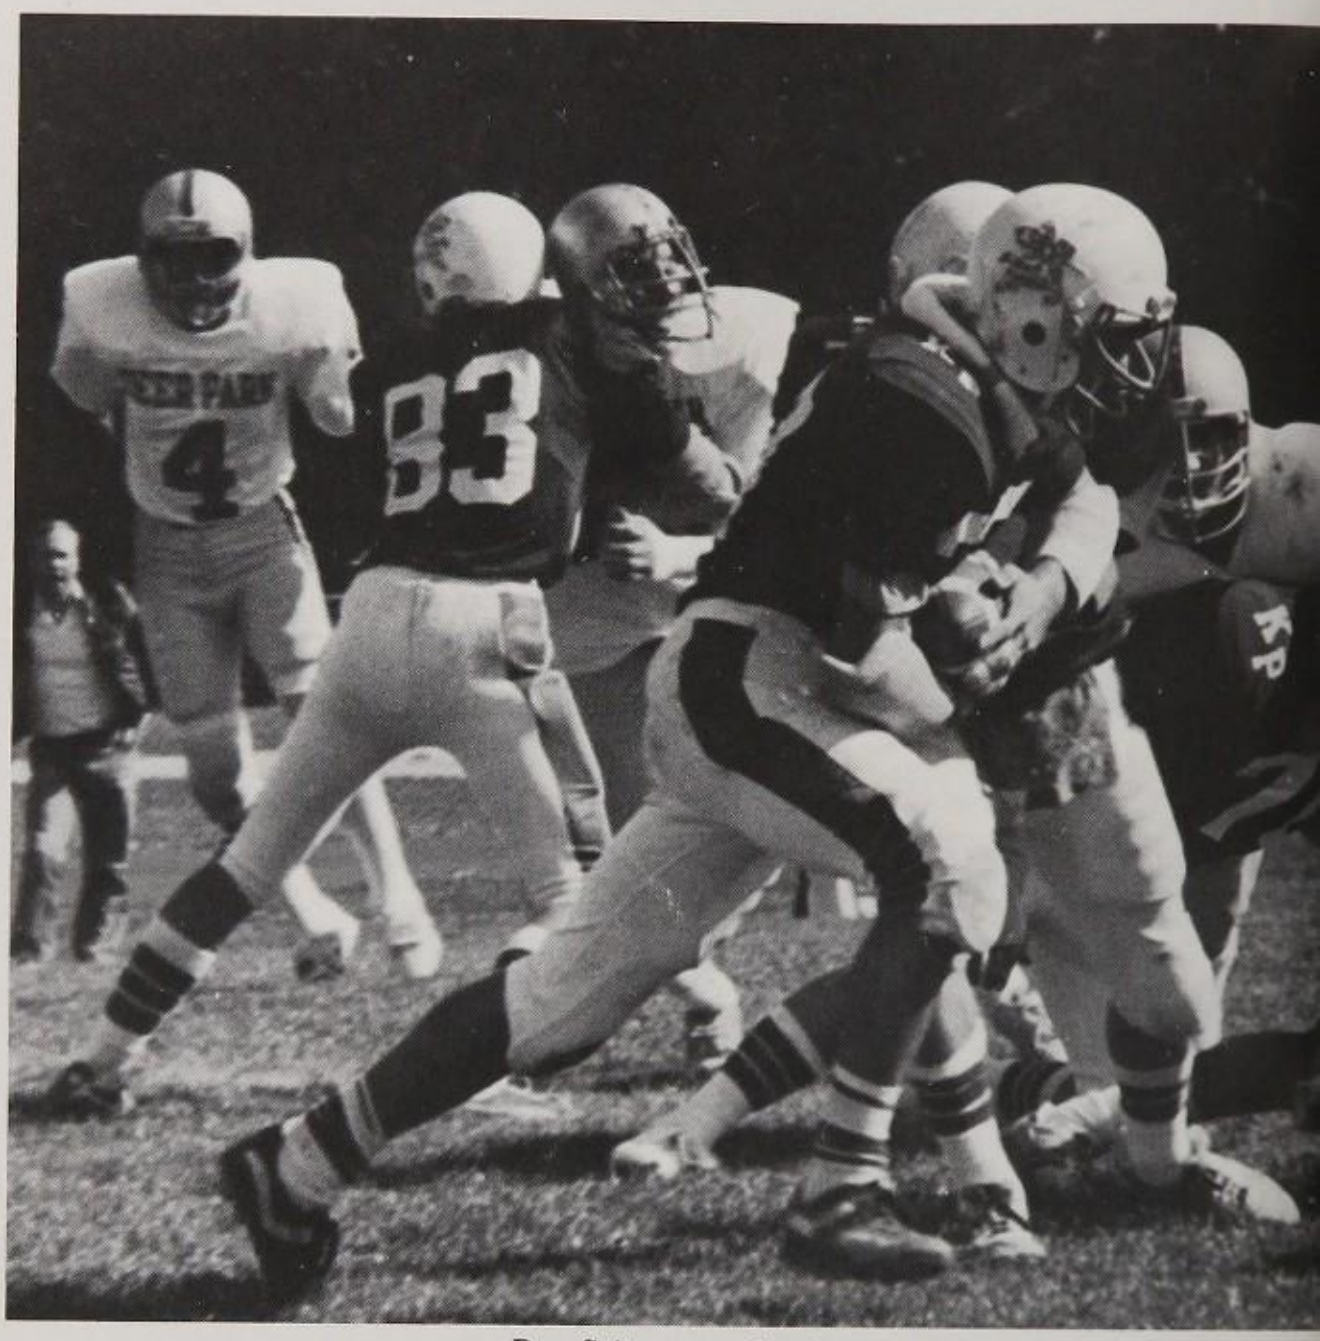
NFL PROSPECTS

The Kings Park Football Team finished a spectacular season by posting six wins and three losses; a super record for the second consecutive season. This marked the first time in school history that a Kings Park Varsity Football Team compiled back-to-back winning seasons. The team was led by All-League, All-County, and Hansen Award Winner Craig Biggio. The coaching staff, along with the team, did a fine job in turning the team around from a one and three start into a five game winning streak. Impressive games were turned in against Centereach and William Floyd. Other All-County members included Ron Seits and John Nicosia. The key to the team's success was Biggio's move from quarter back to tailback. Michael Destefano took over at quarterback and did a fine job. Juniors Nick Valentino, Tom Bravata, Michael Destefano, Joe Direcca were All-league members of the team. Other All-league members included Rich O'Hara, Eddy Montemurro and Vinny Olmo. Team captains Biggio, Seits and Nicosia felt that the team should have made the playoffs, but were satisfied with the team's overall performance.



Ron Seits gets a handoff.

The boy's soccer team entered the season expecting a difficult time because of the lack of experience. Only four players, this year, were regular starters from last year's squad. Coach Eamon Quigley felt that the strength of the team was in its defense. This was evidenced by the low score of many of the games. However, the lack of scoring by the Kingsmen let many games slip away. Although the team did not do as well as the players would have liked, improvements were made in the final games. The Kingsmen collected four points in the standings in the last five league games. Earlier in the season, back-to-back wins were turned in against William Floyd and LaSalle. Captains Tom Ligoti and Craig Rubin felt that the team lost a few games that they could have won. Players selected to All-league were Vic Massina, Dennis Byrne, Craig Rubin and Mike Quigley.

"A Kick in the Grass"

The Kings Park Girls Varsity Soccer Team had an exciting season. However, they could have had a better season. The season was full of ups and downs. There were four seniors on the team; they were Christine Simonsen, Joanne Mott, Patti Roach and co-captain Sally Ayres. All of them helped the team in one way or another. The team received very good defense from co-captain Kathy Hytten and goalie Joanne Barbarite. The team also had three all-league candidates. They were forwards Rosey McSloy, Christine Mott and goalkeeper Joanne Barbarite. Tricia Diegnan also received Honorable Mention for all-league. We had one all-county player who was Christine Mott. The team could have played much better and, they could have won a few more games, but they didn't. No one would deny, though, that the season was full of excitiment. It will be an experience never forgotten by many of the team members.

ACE SERVERS

The Girls Varsity Tennis Team is the first Kings Park Tennis team - girls and boys to ever win the league title. Talk about impressive . . .! The team finished their season with nine wins and only one loss, the best record in Kings Park Tennis history. Coach Richard Shanks was the key to the winning season. His constant encouragement inspired the girls tremendously. Along with his excellent coaching, and the girls optimistic attitude and skill, five players remained undefeated in league play throughout the season. These are Laurie Goldstein, 1st singles player; Mary Park and Christine Keller, 1st team doubles; and Moniqe Lodi and Shari Nathanson, third doubles team. All of these girls went on to the conference meet and did very well for themselves. The season was a great success. Other members of the team who contributed to the winning season were JoAnne Ritchie, Stephanie Chin, Terry Comunale, Sandra Armenian, and Danielle Demo.

The Girls Cross Country Team has done it again. They are the best team in Kings Park High School sports history. With an undefeated record of eight wins and no losses, the girls are well on their way to a tremendous year. Over the past three years, the girls' record is 18 wins and 1 loss. This year's team is the best team ever; thanks to the girl's ability and enthusiasm and also their fantastic coach, William Yandell. Co-captains and senior, Judy Hytten, and sophomore, Sandra Sindaco, led the team to a League IV and Conference II Championship, and a 3rd place finish in the county. Both of these young women are All-League, All-Conference, and All-County Award Winners. Eighth grader, Debbie Allex, surprised the team also winning these awards. Her running career looks very promising for the future. Senior, Cathy Maidhof, also had an excellent season and helped the team tremendously, not only in running but also in team spirit. She is the winner of the Coaches Award. The team is only losing two of its seven varsity members, Judy Hutten and Cathy Maidhof. Their happy days on Cardiac Hill have come to an end. The team will miss their smiling faces and constant optimism and laughter. Another senior's smiling face will also be greatly missed; that of Tara Knott. However, even without these three girls, the team still has great hope for the future years. Perhaps a county championship; only time will tell ... possibly a state championship ...?

The 1983 Boys Cross-Country Team finished strong this year losing only to Bay Shore and Commack North. The team's record was 3 wins and 2 losses. This record ranked them third in the league. Individual honors were earned by several members of the team. Junior, Hiram Cuevas, who is one of the top runners on Long Island, was named to both All League and All County. Sophomore, Jay Diliberto, was named to All League for his second year in a row; and senior, Dave Halpern received an honorable mention. This year's coaches' award went to senior, Mike Letsch, who was the most improved new runner. The most improved veteran runner was senior, Craig Hess. With Hiram, Jay and the other members of the team running strong, there are high hopes for the team in the years to come.

They Got The Moves

This year, the Varsity Cheerleaders participated in the basketball games as well as the football games and were one of the best squads ever. The cheerleaders combined their hard work, team spirit and enthusiasm to make this year's exciting and difficult routines work. The cheerleaders kept the hopes high at every football and basketball game.

Much thanks goes to their coach Mrs. Jane Schoch for her time, patience and support. She guided them to a successful year.

Just For Kicks!

The Kings Park Kickline is kicking away. They can be seen practicing everyday after school. And all their kicking does pay off! The girls participated in the Long Island Kickline Association competitions and did quite well. Along with that, they do their routine at half time during football and basketball games. The Kings Park Kickline deserves a hand (or rather a foot?!) for their hard work and support at the games. The girls have come a long way since 1979. Their fabulous kicking and their advisor, Mrs. Rosemary Johnson's time, patience, and support has helped them to have a very successful season.

SPORTS AWARDS DINNER

At the close of the fall sports year, the High School holds an annual award's dinner. This year's awards dinner was held at the Watermill Inn in Smithtown. At this award's dinner, all those athletes who made All-Star Teams from football, tennis, soccer, and cross-country were honored. Each team then gave individual awards — Most Valuable Player and the Coaches Award. The athletes of Kings Park Senior High School would like to thank all the coaches for their time and encouragement throughout the season. Without their help, they would not have been able to play the sports that they each love.

Reaching Up For The Playoffs

The 1983-84 Kings Park Boy's Varsity Basketball Team began the season with high aspirations for the year. The team had six returning seniors, five juniors, and one sophomore. The players, led by Co-Captains Steve Spina and Brian Dowling, played their best to finish one win short of first place in League IV with a 7-3 record. The team was 11-8 for the season overall.

The highlights of the season were an impressive win over Huntington and a televised win over West Babylon. A two-point loss to Commack North is what kept the Kingsmen from being the League Champions.

The Kingsmen made the playoffs for the first time in sixteen years. The team would like to congratulate All-League players Brian Dowling and Glen Ostrowski. Ostrowski was also nominated for All-County honors.

The team would like to express their warmest thanks to Mr. Gilbert for his fine coaching and enthusiasm throughout the season. Some very strong players will be returning for a winning 1984-85 season!

Girl's Basketball

Having little experience, the girls' varsity basketball team had a tough season this year. The team had only one senior member, co-captain Joanne Mott. Though not contenders for the play-offs, they played each game as if it was for the championship. The team was led by co-captain Deborah Gonzales and sophomore JoAnn Barbarite. Freshman Ronnie Bohm and JoAnn Barbarite were selected to the All-League team. Most members of the team will be returning next year, and they have high hopes for the next season!

Considering the youth and inexperience of this years' Varsity Wrestling Team, they have performed well in many of their matches. Although many of the wrestlers have had little or no experience on the Varsity level, they still managed to pull out a few victories! Before the league season began, several of the wrestlers placed highly in the tournaments at Bellport and Ward Mellvile. In their last home match, Kings Park pulled out an impressive victory over Commack North by a score of 33-25. In the League IV meet, team Captain, Chris Beck, placed fourth.

Mike Choi and John Rosner also placed fourth in their weight classes. Due to the youth of the team, Coach Bill Davey, feels that next year's team will do very well. The team will remain the same for next year's season.

The One and Only

Julie Reilly is "the" swim team for Kings Park High School. Julie started in the world of swimming when she was nine years old.

Swimming for Hauppauge Swim Club, she then transferred to Sachem, and now, at fifteen, she is still swimming. She has won many trophies and medals during her years as a swimmer. This year she was honored with the coaches award and chosen as all-county. Julie has made it all the way to the states, and has won many awards in local meets.

It takes an athlete with great determination to follow a swimmer's schedule. Julie has given up many of her leisure hours to workout at Sachem's pool. For Julie, one of the best swimmers in the state, it has been worth all the work. She has made many friends through swimming, and many college coaches have been keeping an eye on Julie's progress. Julie may even someday make it to the Olympics.

Musical Art

Several changes have been made in the direction and the format of the instrumental program this year. The band is under the direction of Mr. Philip Stentz, a sparkling addition to the music department. This year there are three bands in which students can participate: the Concert Band, the Instrumental Ensemble, and the Concert/Marching Band. Some of the activities the bands take part in are concerts, parades, Marching Band Field Shows, competitions and other community functions.

The chorus is dedicated to the art of vocalizing. Rehearsal time is quality time. The piano accompaniment is provided by Maggie Ho and Gayle Tillman. These musicians lay the ground work. Alto, soprano, tenor and bass combine as a unified force producing the harmonies and melodies. The music chosen for the performances range from the simplest to the complex. The director, Mr. Brown, is the unifying force behind the voices. He devotes his time and effort to a chorus of sophomore, junior and senior voices in order to develop a fine and mellifluous sound.

The Interact Club is a community service organization made up of students who care about others. They work all year long on community oriented projects; the biggest of which is their Annual Christmas dinner for senior citizens in the community. For Thanksgiving the Interact Club makes food baskets for the needy of K1ngs Park. They help raise money for Muscular Dystrophy and they also raise money to support the club with a bowl-a-thon. The Interact Club of Kings Park High School is made up of conscientious students who work hard all year long to make others lives more pleasant.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The Student Council is the governing student body in the high school. It is responsible to every other activity and club in the school. It has the power to charter clubs and approve all fund raising activities. The Student Council plans activities throughout the years such as the annual Homecoming and the various Dress Up Days. This year the Student Council held a Student-Faculty Dinner Dance for the first time and it was an unbelievable success. Interclass Competition Night also gives the students a chance to get involved. The Student Council is made up of four seniors elected into office, class officers and the classroom representatives. The Student Council is the spirit body of the school.

The senior class has a certain spirit that has not been present at Kings Park High School in a long time. This spirit enables students to turn around some of the apathy aften found in school. The senior class is proud of it's many accomplishments. Looking back on the prom, homecoming, interclass competition and many other special events which took place throughout the years, it can be seen that this was the best senior year that it could possibly have been. We hope we have provided a memorable senior year. The spirit shown by the class of 1984 has set an example for the classes that will follow.

The junior class this year is trying to raise money for a memorable prom night. We are also trying out different ideas to make our fellow classmates more aware of what is going on by providing an outlet of information for all. Hopefully these ideas will instill a greater involvement in school activities and events. We know that the Class of 1985 will be remembered for their tremendous school spirit.

D. Cuomo, S. Boba, S. Sindaco, C. Beach.

Sophomore year is an exciting time. The sophomore officers purpose is to make the first year of high school as much fun as possible. The first year in a new school can be a traumatic experience, but with help, Sophomore year can be a fond memory when we later reflect on our high school years.

Cultural Arts

Every year the Drama Club presents two plays: a drama in the fall and a musical in the spring. This year the drama was the Greek tragedy, Antigone, by Sophocles. Thanks to the very talented director, Mr. Brown, and the equally talented cast, the show was a success. The productions get better every year. If it were not for the dedication and hard work of the students in the Drama Club, the shows would not be what they are. It takes a great deal of courage for someone to get up on stage and perform in front of an audience. Thanks must go to Mr. Brown for his hard work and encouragement of the Drama Club.

THE FORENSICS TEAM

Forensics, which includes debate and speech, is a very important activity in which students are encouraged to participate. There are several different categories in each division.

Debate consists of Lincoln - Douglas and Team Debate Novice and varsity Lincoln-Douglas is a one-on-one values' debate. Team Debate concerns itself with a national resolve that changes yearly. Speech has five areas in which one can speak. They are Declamation, Dramatics, Extemporaneous Speaking and Original Oratory.

Debate and Speech require much time and practice in order to succeed. The members of the Forensics Team have evidenced their talents through the trophies, awards and personal satisfaction they have received.

KINGS HERALD

One of the foundations of an involved student body is the newspaper. At Kings Park High School, we proudly publish the Kings Herald. This newspaper takes an interest in the activities of the entire student community. The completed issue contains several basic sections; editorials, sports, fashion, entertainment, plus much more. The students involved in the 1983-84 staff of the Kings Park Herald are dedicated and actively involved in covering school activities and events. They believe in displaying a newspaper of quality and high standards. The advisor of the Herald is Mr. Sackett, who helps the staff perform in a professional manner. Both the student body and faculty look forward to the distribution of this fine newspaper.

KALEIDOSCOPE

Kaleidoscope is Kings Park High School's very own literary magazine. The 1982-83 magazine won two first place awards. One was from the American Scholastic Press Association, the other from the Columbia Scholastic Press Association. The magazine is designed for students to display their creative writing and artistic talents. It contains poems, essays, plays, short stories, sketches, technical drawings, cartoons, limericks, songs and photographs. All of these are organized by the Kaleidoscope staff, who arrange the works around a common theme. It takes a great deal of hard work, organization and dedication to reach the final product. The hard work eventually pays off with the finished, published magazine of Kings Park High School: Kaleidoscope.

RADIO SHOW AND SPANISH CLUB

The Radio Show is a service to the students and faculty of Kings Park High School that is run by the students. It provides helpful information in its announcements and personal messages. It also informs the students and faculty of all happenings in the school and the community. It reports the results of all sports events and activities. More than any of this, the Radio Show provides enjoyable music for all.

This year, something new was offered to the Kings Park High School Spanish enthusiasts. Mrs. Carrier, a Spanish teacher new to the High School, met with a group of Spanish students and organized the High School's first ever Spanish Club. The students in the Club are exposed to Spanish music, dance, food, and other aspects of Spanish culture by going on trips to restaurants, museums, theatre and other such places. The club has raised money to send a Spanish student from South America through school. The club has been a tremendous success, and it will continue to be offered to Spanish students in the High School for as long as the students show an interest in it.

They also traveled to the Vanderbilt Planetarium and viewed the stars through the planetarium's observatory. The club also studies Marine Biology on a ship in Mystic Harbor and attends lectures on biology at C. W. Post College. Those students who have been active participants in the Science Club find it to be a great experience as they advance themselves in the science fields.

The Mickey Mouse club went to the Smithtown Hospital before Christmas vacation and dressed up as Mickey, Minnie, and the gang. The leader of this club is Mr. Merone, who also founded the club. He is Mickey's most devoted fan.

PAL
Art Club

The Personal Assistance Laboratory, otherwise known as P.A.L., works to better the communication between the students throughout the district, and to help younger boys and girls, both socially and academically by utilizing the talents of Kings Park High School Students. The high school students serve as role models for specific elementary students who may be encountering difficulty in the school setting as well as outside of school. Since it started, PAL has received positive responses from the administrators, teachers and parents. Involvement in the program has enabled students to learn about the social services they can render to their community and nation. The fine efforts and dedication of the high school students has enabled PAL to be very successful in all its endeavors.

Students Against Drunk Driving is a club for students who want to fight "Driving While Intoxicated" among High School Students. Many schoolwide activities have been conducted to spread the word. "Friends Don't Let Friends Drive Drunk!" The group's purpose is to instill a greater awareness of the growing problem of driving drunk in today's society. The club feels that if only one life is saved by their efforts they will have achieved their goal. The members of SADD are individuals who are concerned with the welfare of their community. Although the Kings Park SADD chapter is just beginning, it is hoped that eventually it will encompass the entire student body and faculty in fighting against drunk driving.

One day after school each week, Mr. LaManna leads an art club meeting. Here, many artistic (and not so artistic!) students meet to work on ceramics, painting, drawing or whatever they wish. These projects are individually chosen, and are all the independent work of each student. The students are allowed to use the school's art resources at their own leisure. Art club is very enjoyable and open to all interested students.

The school store serves the student population by supplying them with school supplies and sports related items. The majority of the students working in the store are from the marketing classes. The students working in the store are trained to sell merchandise, to stock inventory, to price merchandise, and to build display windows.

The DECA Club is a national marketing club preparing students to enter future careers in marketing, fashion, advertising, or business. Most of the students in the DECA Club are in Mrs. LePorte's marketing classes. The club is very busy during the year. First, each member prepares themselves to enter a contest in an area of marketing in which they are interested. Contests take place at the county, state, and national levels. Students are busy preparing for and traveling to these contests. One of the main events of each year is the annual trip upstate to the Concord Hotel. There students enter contests at the state level. DECA members involve themselves in projects such as combating shoplifting in our community, promoting the free enterprise system, and promoting goodwill within the community. Each year the DECA Club sponsors a fashion show. The marketing classes are responsible for this event. They coordinate the entire program. This year the DECA Club has over sixty members, and they are having a very successful year.

"C'mon guys, there's so much work to be done . . . let's go!! . . . " how many times have we heard that?? Only the yearbook editors know what it means to have "work to be done." Only they'll remember all those many days . . . those only-20-pages-more days . . . those "I hate yearbook!" days . . . yes . . . those days . . . endless days in 101! Croppers . . . grease pencils . . . copy . . . layouts . . . HELP! I'm drowning in endless pages and pictures and captions to write and ads to get. But now, Now . . . we know that it's been worth every single minute. The last day is here . . . it has finally arrived and everyone is saying "Thank God!" Even Sally, who from the beginning, always yelled, always pushed us on. She was our backbone; our strength and our guidance . . . all of us editors will remember her "No one is gonna win for losing!" . . . an outburst at one of our better meetings . . . it eventually became our motto . . . what we all lived by. And, of course, we'll never forget our other leader . . . Lauren, quiet, soft-spoken-if a bit timid . . . but even with all her non-violence, she was always there. She stayed strong with her motto "It's better I laugh than I cry?! . . . She gave us support and encouragement and always had a smile. Sally and Lauren . . . complete opposites. . . . a mismatched pair? NO! . . . they pulled us all together and created this book. All of us from the photography editor, the copy editor, the layout designer, the organizers, the thinkers to the kid who sold pretzels in lunch . . . yes, we all made it . . . and we'll all remember it . . . and we'll all miss it. This is the end. But it is only the end of the beginning . . . no longer to be a high school kid . . . New Horizons are spread before us, and we'll all soon be "Branching Out" . . . because we not only shape the future . . . we are the future. Every last one of us . . . as we flip through these pages years from now, the worn pages of our "old high school yearbook" . . . it will all come back to us . . . and like a tidal wave, that same old feeling will wash over us, as when we were first handed the book. From all of us here . . . the magicians who breathed life into the magic book . . . we wish all of you (especially those "lucky" people who were chosen to be editors next year) the best in the years to come with love in your heart, smiles at your sides and happiness in your life . . . Now and Forever!!!

It seems that life was so much simpler for us when we were younger. Now that we are growing older we sadly lose that sense of such freedom—lost in the whirlwind of our new obligations and responsibilities; to our families—brothers and sisters, to our school work and our extra-curricular activities—and most importantly, to ourselves.

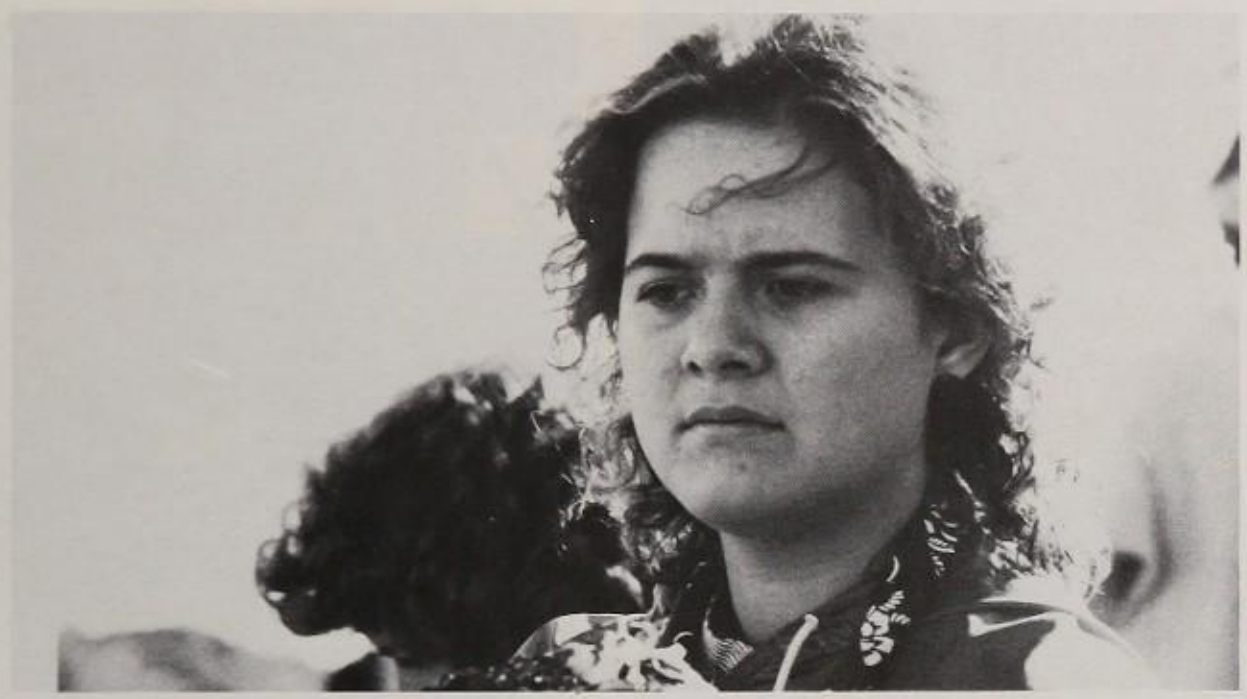
Friendship



Ellen Korabik contemplates life

It is all our memories and feelings we tried to capture in our yearbook that make up who we are and what we are. All our emotions and all our learning are the elements of our personality — the parts that make each of us a whole individual.

Maureen Savage and Mike Petrone ... caring for each other.

It may be bittersweet to look back on our lives, and to face growing up—with all of its pressures—but we have so much to look forward to! Whether we choose to go to college, pursue a career, or even start a family of our own, we look forward to our lives of challenges and new horizons.
